Denise Morrison Wins Pie Bake

TEEN-AGER WINS PIE BAKE — Grand Champion Pie Baker of the Pumpkin Show, Denise Morrison, 17, (center) is awarded a ribbon and silver tray trophy by Mrs. Robert Shadley (left) and Mrs. Joseph Gazdik following Saturday judging. The champion pie baker earned other honors during the 1970 show on Wednesday when she was selected second attendant to Miss Pumpkin Show in opening night ceremonies.

Seventeen-year-old Westfall High School senior Denise Morrison became the Grand Champion Pie Baker of the 1970 Pumpkin Show Saturday in the final pumpkin pie bake-off.

Second place winner was Martha Purcell of 156 W. Franklin St. Third place was awarded Mrs. Paul Kneec, Route 1, Stoutsville.

The Saturday contestants were previous winners of the daily contest making them eligible for the final bake-off.

Judges admitted that not one detail of a pumpkin pie was overlooked Saturday in selecting the winner. Each entry was exceptional and each one perfect, according to the judges.

DENISE is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kewyn Morrison, Route 1, Williamsport. She is not new to the winner's list. Her 1969 contest entry also earned a similar award in the teenage division of the Bake-A-Pumpkin-Pie contest. This year there were no divisions of classes. Teen-agers and adults competed in one class.

Miss Morrison received $50 prize money and a silver tray trophy donated by Harden Chevrolet Co. and Radcliffe Cleaners. Second prize money was worth $30, third place $20.

Judges Saturday were Becky Sheridan of Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. and Brenda Burris of Columbia Gas of Ohio Inc., Columbus.

Mrs. Robert Shadley, contest director, reported no record number of entries in the 1970 show, but said all pies were exceptional. She and assistant, Mrs. Joseph Gazdik, wish to thank all people who entered pies in the contest and those who brought pies which were sold daily following judging. Their thanks is also extended to the judges and contest sponsors Bingham Drugs, Goeller's Paint Store, Harden Chevrolet, Gordon Auto Parts and Glass, Radcliffe Cleaners and Pumpkin Show, Inc. along with the local radio station and the Circleville Herald.

U.S. Consuls Fly To See 2 Generals

MOSCOW (AP) — Two U.S. consuls were flying to Soviet Armenia today to interview two American generals held since their light plane crossed the Turkish border five days ago. It was the U.S. government's first contact with the officers.

Soviet authorities granted permission Sunday for Consuls Peter C. Swiers and Richard Combs to visit Maj. Gen. Edward C.D. Scherrer, chief of the U.S. military mission in Turkey, and Brig. Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr., chief of the mission's Army section.

The pilot of the generals' Beechcraft got lost in turbulent weather during a tour of bases in eastern Turkey and landed safely on Wednesday at Leninakan, just inside Soviet territory. The U.S. Embassy in Moscow requested prompt release of the plane, the generals, their American pilot and a Turkish escort officer. The Soviets refused, saying the plane "violated Soviet air space," but the United States said the violation was "clearly accidental."

Under the U.S.-Soviet consular treaty persons may be detained incommunicado for up to four days, and that deadline passed Sunday. Soviet officials remain noncommittal on when the plane and its occupants would be released, saying only that the incident was under investigation.

The Soviet press has mentioned the incident only in a short factual story last Friday, possibly indicating that the government does not plan to make an issue of it.

Missile Sites Grow, Says Israeli Chief

TEL AVIV (AP) — The chief of Israel's military intelligence department claimed today that Egypt and the Soviet Union "have set up one of the most advanced missile systems in the world" along the Suez Canal.

Gen. Aharon Yariv estimated that 500 to 600 missile launchers have been constructed in the 30-mile zone just west of the canal in violation of the cease-fire ban on improvement of military positions in this zone.

He said the Soviet missile system in Vietnam was much inferior to the Suez Canal defenses.

In a rare on-the-record news conference with foreign newsmen, Yariv also estimated there are about 3,000 Soviet technicians, advisers and other personnel in the standstill zone.

At the same time he appeared to confirm U.S. newspaper reports that Washington had just sold Israel a large quantity of armor and artillery. In reply to a question, he smilingly admitted that if the reports were accurate, "technically this is an important contribution" toward offsetting Egypt's new missile advantage.

Florida Citrus Mutual, a co-op representing more than 15,000 growers, has decided to seek new uses for the fruit as fast as possible.

"We're in a clutch situation now, and that's an understatement," said Tom Osborne, assistant general manager of Mutual.

"I think the industry is finally beginning to realize we've got to get into markets unrelated to the food category because the prospect of selling oranges through research is unlimited."

The Florida Citrus Research Council, a division of the Florida Department of Citrus, has already given preliminary approval for a study to determine the usefulness of orange juice in combatting cancer.

The tentative okay was given after Dr. J.U. Schlegel of the Tulane University School of Medicine told the group ascorbic acid may have great value as an antioxidant in fighting cancer of the bladder. Orange juice is packed with ascorbic acid.

The role of orange juice, rich in vitamin C, in fighting gout, hardening of the arteries, arthritis, rheumatism of the muscles, thickening of the skin and even heart disease already is being probed by doctors.

The possibility of prolonging an aging person's sex activity with orange juice is being researched by a Japanese doctor, M. Higuchi.

"We've even got a guy who's working on a hair conditioner rinse made from orange peel oil," Osborne said.

South Viets Start Campaign Against Reds In Cambodia

Tell Story Of California Slayings

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer
SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — A family friend says he believes a gunman shot Virginia Ohta dead in her home and then lay in wait to pick off four more victims.

The friend told an interviewer Sunday he believed the next to die were Dr. Victor M. Ohta's secretary, Dorothy Cadwallader, and one of the Ohta sons she had brought home from school.

Then, the friend said, the evidence suggested that Dr. Ohta arrived with another son, found out what was going on, lunged at the lone killer and was shot dead in turn.

The friend said the last to die appeared to have been the son who came home from school with his father. He said the boy probably was cut down while trying to flee from the killer.

The friend, who had known Dr. Ohta 25 years, granted an interview only after being assured his name would not be used. He said he based his opinions on information he gathered while working with sheriff's investigators, and "a careful re-tracing of events."

John Linley Frazier, 24, who lived in a shabby cabin about half a mile from Ohta's $250,000 hilltop mansion, has been booked on a warrant charging him with the five slayings.

Dist. Atty. Peter Chang Jr. also has said he thinks one person could have killed all five—

Dr. Ohta, 45, his wife, 43, their sons Derrick, 12, and Taggart, 11, and Mrs. Cadwallader, 38.

The friend said Mrs. Ohta was alone in the house last Monday afternoon and when she did not show up to pick up the sons, school officials telephoned Dr. Ohta's office.

"I believe the killer got Mrs. Ohta in the afternoon and simply waited for the others to come," the friend said.

Dr. Ohta picked up one son and Mrs. Cadwallader picked up the other boy at a different school, the friend said.

The friend said he believed that when the doctor got home he was met at the front door of his home by the armed killer and ordered to walk to the swimming pool, where the bodies of the three others had been thrown.

"I think he saw the first child's body lying in the pool from the steps and he probably turned and lunged for the killer and got shot under the arm," the friend said.

The killer then finished him off, the friend said.

Police have reported that all the victims were shot once in the back of the head with a .22-caliber bullet, except Dr. Ohta, who was shot three times with a .38—once under the arm, once in the back and once in the back of the head.

The friend said he believed the youngster who came home with his father tried to run but was "cut with a pistol butt

American Officials Admit It's Easy To Flee Country

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a fugitive seeking refuge abroad, getting out of the United States is "incredibly easy," say government officials.

"All you've got to do is walk across the border, go to the Cuban embassy and say you want to go to Algeria," said one U.S. official who asked not to be identified.

In recent months, a number of fugitives from American justice have followed that or similar scenarios, among them Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver and LSD advocate Dr. Timothy Leary.

Escape routes are available to radical fugitives through both Mexico and Canada, according to government sources. In most cases the next stop is Cuba; for some, like Cleaver, it is on to Algeria.

Crossing from the United States into Canada or Mexico is perhaps the easiest step in a fugitive's journey, government sources say, because of hundreds of miles of borders guarded by only 1,600 Customs and Immigration officers.

For those on the radical left, the sources say, a sort of informal underground railroad exists. It is believed Cleaver and Leary used such a pipeline.

For fugitives whose political views might not mesh with those in Cuba or Algeria, the going gets a little rougher.

James Earl Ray, who pleaded guilty to the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., obtained a false passport in Canada to get to England where he was caught.

Among fugitives believed to have sought refuge out of the country are four young men sought in last summer's fatal bombing of the Army Mathematics Research Center at the University of Wisconsin.

When the FBI issues a warrant for a fugitive, police in Canada and Mexico are notified. Cooperation by neighboring police is described as good.

Should Canadian or Mexican police pick up a fugitive from the United States, extradition is governed by a series of treaties.

Since neither Algeria nor Cuba maintain diplomatic relations with the United States, there is no extradition process.

Bomb Rips Minnesota Private Home

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — An explosion shattered the windows of a kitchen and a basement at the home of a policeman's parents just before midnight. No one was injured.

"I don't know of any enemies we would have," Mrs. Stanley Fiega Sr. said today, "but my son is a policeman and it could have something to do with that."

The father and son have the same name, and Mrs. Fiega said her son told her someone had asked for his first name at the station Saturday.

The younger Fiega has not lived at home for two years.

Mrs. Fiega said she and her husband were sleeping when a bomb exploded. "There was a very big crash and our bed jerked."

She said there was a lot of smoke which smelled like firecrackers and that glass was blown throughout the basement. She said she thought the bomb had been placed outside the basement window, where a hole about 4 inches deep and 8 inches in diameter was blown into the ground.

Taft Supports National Guard

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Robert Taft Jr., today said he thought the state grand jury that investigated the Kent State disorders of last spring was right in not indicting any Ohio National Guardsmen.

Taft, Republican Senatorial nominee, said he could not conceive "how men sent there under orders can be charged with a crime."

He said there perhaps some "mistakes of judgment" in putting the guard on the campus without proper weapons for crowd control. But he repeated that he didn't believe Guardsmen under orders should be indicted.

Seek To Force Israeli Pullback

U.N. Assembly Hears Egypt's Plea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Egypt sought today to enlist the U.N. General Assembly in its drive to force Israel out of the territory it took from Egypt, Jordan and Syria in the 1967 war.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad was to be the opening speaker in an assembly debate on the situation in the Middle East. Egypt asked for the debate.

Riad said he would demand "real implementation of the resolution" the Security Council adopted Nov. 22, 1967. It calls for Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories and Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist as a nation.

Acting at Egypt's request, a group of other African delegates have drawn up a resolution demanding that Israel resume the indirect talks with Egypt and Jordan which U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring arranged with himself as go-between. The resolution calls for a report to the assembly in two months, in effect giving Israel that length of time to end her boycott.

The resolution accuses the Israelis of obstructing Jarring's efforts, declares the acquisition of territory by force "inadmissible" and says Israel's continued occupation cannot be permitted.

"This proposal, obviously Arab inspired, must be rejected out of hand," said an Israeli official in Jerusalem. Others said the African authors of the resolution should try to get the Soviet-Egyptian missiles removed from the Suez Canal zone "in stead of always pointing the finger of blame at us."

Israel has said repeatedly that it will not return to the Jarring talks until Egypt pulls back Soviet anti-aircraft missiles which Israel and the United States charge have been moved closer to the Suez Canal in violation of the three-month cease-fire that began Aug. 7.

Battelle Gets Grant To Test Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity announced Sunday a $614,000 grant to Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, Ohio, to test students taking part in performance contracting programs.

Under the programs, teachers and students who do well scholastically are paid extra for their performances.

U.S. Artillery Backs Drive From Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Spearheaded by two armored columns and supported by American artillery, 6,000 South Vietnamese troops pushed into the war-ravaged Cambodian town of Snuol today in a new offensive.

Informed sources said the American 155mm and 8-inch artillery guns were firing from bases in Vietnam, and there were no American troops with the advancing Vietnamese.

Action was reported light as the drive began Sunday. Two North Vietnamese and a South Vietnamese were reported killed in a brief clash four miles southeast of Snuol, and another South Vietnamese was wounded.

The new dry season offensive by Saigon's forces nearly doubles their strength in Cambodia to half a dozen task forces totaling 17,500 troops. They are operating along three key highways used by the North Vietnamese as supply and infiltration routes into the southern half of South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese headquarters claimed a total of 139 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops killed in Cambodia since another operation began Saturday. The offensive is aimed at countering a North Vietnamese threat to Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces, a region from which American forces are being withdrawn rapidly.

A spokesman said South Vietnamese losses so far are three killed and 31 wounded, a kill ratio of 46 enemy to one South Vietnamese.

The South Vietnamese forces in Cambodia are operating in the Fish Hook region 80 miles north of Saigon and in the Parrot's Beak 50 miles west of Saigon.

Informed sources said American observation planes had spotted "considerable activity" in the Mimot area, and other intelligence information indicated up to a regiment of North Vietnamese troops operating around Snuol.

There are indications, the sources said, that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are trying to move back into the base areas from which American and South Vietnamese forces drove them last May and June. A huge stockpile of new war material was uncovered last week in Long An Province 15 miles south of Saigon.

SATURDAY from 6 to 9 p. m. is Beggars' Night in Roundtown, it was announced today by Chief of Police Robert Temple. The Jaycees annual Halloween Parade is the same night.

Ex-UC President Walters Is Dead

CINCINNATI (AP) — Funeral services for Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati from 1932-55, will be Wednesday at the Cavalry Episcopal Church here.

Dr. Walters, 85, died Sunday at Drake Hospital, where he had been a patient since suffering a stroke in 1960.

His term as president of UC was the longest in the school's history. He was succeeded by Walter Langsam who retires next year.

Goodell To Remain In Senate Contest

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Charles E. Goodell said today a factor in his decision to remain in the three-way Senate race was the belief that "if I withdrew at this point, I would be handing my head to Vice President Agnew on a platter."

Goodell, bucking the effects of a White House disavowal and a polling showing him trailing, spoke at a news conference where he received endorsements from 18 Republican senators.

Orange Growers Seek Way To Peddle Bumper Crop

Private Detective Being Sought For Shootings

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 20-year-old private detective went berserk and killed a young Lawnview Avenue mother of six children and wounded her husband and a neighbor woman Sunday night, Cleveland police said.

Homicide officers said the man was still being sought this morning.

Police said the man shot and wounded Mrs. Myril Thomas, 53, at her home at 6815 Lawnview Avenue after an argument over Mrs. Thomas' daughter. He then went upstairs to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goins, apparently looking for the Thomas girl, they said.

Goins, 31, was shot and seriously wounded when he opened the door and his wife Bertha, 26, was shot once in the chest and killed, police said. The couple's six children were unhurt.

Conservation Achievement Day Honors Jonnes, Dunlap

The late Dr. Howard Jonnes was inducted into the Ohio Conservation Hall of Fame and John H. Dunlap Jr. was honored for his contributions to conservation Saturday at the annual Ohio Conservation Achievement Day held at the Ohio Exposition Grounds.

Present to accept the honor for Dr. Jonnes was his grandson Hildebrand Jonnes and a great-granddaughter, Heidi Jonnes, of Minnesota.

Also attending the program was Mrs. Lloyd Jonnes, 149 W. Main St.

Dr. Jonnes was honored for his contribution to conservation as author and co-painter of "Birds of Ohio."

Arthur Godfrey was the speaker at the program.

Dunlap represents the seventh generation of a family of farmers who first settled in Ohio north of Chillicothe in 1791.

Today he owns or manages 31 farms totaling over 13,000 acres. He also has a contracting company which specializes in soil conservation, building lakes, ponds, levees, terraces and other conservation devices.

In addition to his efforts on his own land, Dunlap lends his exceptional organizational ability to such organizations as the Citizens Committee for Parks and Water which he helped organize, the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District which he served as director, the Ohio Forestry Assn., and the Ohio State University College of Agriculture's Advisory Committee.

He recently was honored for his dedication and long service as chairman of the Ohio Recreation and Resources Commission.

Chile Tense As Army Chief Dies Of Assassin's Bullets

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The Chilean army planned a big funeral today for its commander-in-chief, Gen. Rene Schneider, as police hunted his assassins among Chile's extreme rightists.

A requiem High Mass was to be sung for the slain general in Santiago's Roman Catholic cathedral. His simple wooden coffin was to be placed in the army mausoleum after a caisson cortege through 12 blocks of the city, eulogies by government and military officials and a rifle salute.

Authorities said their investigation indicated that "persons of the ultra-right" planned the shooting Thursday morning at a downtown intersection. Schneider died Sunday morning, less than 24 hours after Congress decisively chose Marxist Salvador Allende president of the Republic.

Allende's supporters claimed that rightist conspirators thought Schneider's assassination would spark an army revolt to prevent the social senator from taking office. Allende, 62, won a plurality only in the presidential election on Sept. 4, giving Congress the job of choosing between him and a conservative. The vote Saturday was 153-35.

A state of emergency suspending some civil rights was declared Thursday night to facilitate the search for Schneider's assassins. More than 150 persons have been arrested, but only about a dozen remain in jail. The rest were freed after questioning.

Rumors of plots within the army and outside it to keep Allende out of the presidency have circulated for months, and Schneider was considered the most vocal opponent of a break with the military's long-standing tradition of not interfering in politics.

"Gen. Schneider is an example not only for the army but for all of Chile," said the president-elect. "His respect for the constitution cost him his life."

The mourning period and the strict measures of the state of emergency clouded Allende's victory. Police checkpoints along roads from the capital and a midnight to 6 a.m. curfew were to continue until further notice. Private airports were closed.

Allende and his staff continued preparing for the new government to be inaugurated on Nov. 3. He is expected to announce his cabinet choices this week.

Short In Auto Lighter Causes Fire

Circleville firefighters answered one alarm over the weekend at 6:15 p.m. Sunday.

No loss was noted in a small fire in an automobile owned by Carl Adams, 316 Logan St., while it was parked at Joe's Frosty Treat on N. Court. Firemen attributed the blaze to a short in the car's cigarette lighter.

Motorcycle Club Members Free On Bond

Eight members of a Columbus based motorcycle club, the Aces, were arrested Saturday and charged with making menacing threats to James Zimmerman, operator of a N. Court St. service station.

Zimmerman filed the affidavits against Clarence Fenneken, Harvey Ferguson, Bobby Lee Marcum, Gary L. West, Paul D. Wyrick, Ron Hall, Lola Hall and Charles Guidry.

Circleville Policeman Jack Mills said today the members of the motorcycle club had caused no trouble at Pumpkin Show, and were leaving Circleville when the alleged threats were made to Zimmerman.

Mills and another officer stayed with the cyclists the entire time they were in the downtown area.

AT 6:43 p.m. Police received a call from Zimmerman reporting he had trouble with the group.

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department was notified and a road block was set up at County Road 511 and Route 23. The persons were apprehended at 6:51, eight minutes after Zimmerman placed the first call.

Fenneken is currently being held in the Pickaway County Jail for military authorities. He has been AWOL since March, police have been informed.

The other seven persons have been released under $500 bond each and a hearing has been scheduled Nov. 5.

Tell Story . . .

Scaves found binding the victims' wrists "were very loosely tied," the friend said. He concluded all were dead when the killer tied their hands with the neckwear—from the doctor's wardrobe—and threw them in the pool.

The killer then set fire to the house. The bodies were found by firemen responding to a neighbor's alarm call.

Sheriff's Sgt. Richard Damon, one of the principal investigators, was asked his reaction to the friend's explanation of the crime.

Damon said he was "very glad this is coming out because there has been a lot of fears in the community." Many had expressed doubt that one person could have killed all five, and were apprehensive that murder accomplices were at large.

The investigation stressed that authorities were continuing to probe the possibility that more than one killer was involved.

Meanwhile, security returned to normal at the county jail where Frazier is being held, the sheriff's office said. When he was brought in Friday, armed guards, working in pairs were posted at all four corners of the building.

On Sunday, the court appointed attorney for Frazier, James A. Jackson, said he was considering entering an insanity plea for the shaggy, bearded former auto mechanic.

Commenting on a report published by the San Francisco Examiner that authorities had matched Frazier's fingerprints with prints on a typewriter used to write a bizarre note left at the slaying scene, Jackson said: "If they don't have Frazier's fingerprints on the typewriter the evidence is all circumstantial."

Damon said, "None of us here has knowledge of any fingerprint."

Health Clerk Reports Food Booth Increase

Visitors to the Pumpkin Show this year could see the festival's increase in size and the greater number of food booths.

Health Department clerk-recorder Harriet Wallace confirmed the increase this year when she reported that licenses were issued for 29 food operations during Pumpkin Show. This is seven more than were authorized during 1969's show. Over $100 more was taken in on the license sales with a record $287. Mrs. Wallace noted that the increase was due to more businesses in operation requiring the regular $15 license. Schools and church groups get a discount rate of $1 for their licenses.

The two women told police they had taken their laundry there and had left for a while. When they returned, the baskets of clothes were taken.

William R. Kensler, 22, Columbus, who operated a concession at the Pumpkin Show, reported an air compressor was taken from his concession following the close of Pumpkin Show. He valued the compressor at $130.

Jim Patrick reported that three stereo tapes were taken from his car Saturday.

Acting Detroit Mayor Halts Police - Panther Bloodshed

DETROIT (AP)—Acting Mayor Mel Ravitz, who used his body as a shield to guarantee the safe surrender of Black Panthers in a police slaying, says "patience, discipline and hardheaded common sense" kept the incident from being a "showdown—a holocaust."

Meanwhile, 15 black youths were charged Sunday with murder in the shooting death of Patrolman Glenn E. Smith, 26, a Negro. He was shot in the head near the headquarters of the National Committee to Combat Fascism, a Panther organizing group.

Police said they arrested two other persons in connection with the burning of three cars, including two police vehicles.

Heavily armed police waited in the shadows for nine hours Saturday night and early Sunday as black attorneys and a black newspaperwoman entered the headquarters and convinced 12 of the charged youths to give themselves up.

Ravitz, white, and Councilman Nicholas Hood and State Rep. James Del Rio, black, met the youths at the sidewalk of the two-story building and escorted them to a nearby police vehicle, where arrests were made.

Three other youths decided to stay behind, but they were routed from the building shortly afterward when police moved in and fired tear gas shells. They were uninjured.

"It could have been 1967 all over again, and more," said Ravitz, referring to the Detroit riot of three years ago which left

3 dead. Ravitz, Detroit Common Council president who is serving as mayor in the absence of vacationing Mayor Roman Gribbs, praised black community leaders and the police for their actions in avoiding further bloodshed.

An investigation, he said, would be conducted into the events which led to the shooting of Smith and wounding of another black policeman, Marshall Emerson Jr., 25.

Black Panther leaders claimed police had been harassing the new headquarters, moved across town to the West Side a week ago.

At a news conference Sunday, Panther leaders said the black community, not the police, should be credited for lack of bloodshed.

Ravitz, however, said that at the news conference the Black Panther leaders "acknowledged implicitly the response was a fair response. They just refused to give any acknowledgement to the police."

Drug Citation Issued In Road Mishap

Four accidents, including two motorcycle mishaps, in Pickaway County over the weekend resulted in three injuries and a citation for driving while under the influence of drugs.

Charles E. Hamilton, 39, 521 E. Main St., was cited on the drug charge and reckless operation when he went left of center and struck a car driven by Marion Kidwell, 64 of Reynoldsburg at 4:55 p.m. Saturday on the Circleville-Groveport Road near Swackhammer Road.

Hamilton was cited by Deputy Sheriff Bill Dountz. Dorothy Lee Green, 24, Lockbourne received a back injury at 9:45 a.m. Saturday when she lost control of her auto on the Circleville-Lockbourne Road in Harrison Township and struck a utility pole.

Deputy Bob Hoover investigated and Mrs. Green was treated at the Ashville Clinic.

A motorcycle accident at 11:05 a.m. Saturday on the Harrisburg-Fairfield Road injured the driver, William Vernon Near Jr., 35, Orient.

Near told Deputy Hoover he lost control of the cycle and went into the ditch. He was treated at Berger Hospital for a concussion and abrasions of the arms and face.

Robert Kent Leham, 30, Columbus, was treated at Berger Hospital for head injuries and body abrasions suffered at 1:10 p.m. Sunday on Route 56 near the Huber-Hiller Road.

He told Deputy Hoover his motorcycle upset throwing him to the highway.

Pickaway Physicians Back Retarded Levy

The Pickaway County Medical Assn. has pledged support of the five-tenths mill operating levy for the Brooks-Yates School and the Mentally Retarded Workshop.

Physicians voted unanimously to support the levy at their October meeting held at Tink's Tavern.

Tools Stolen In Mt. Sterling

Pickaway County Sheriff's Department is investigating a breaking and entering and grand larceny at the residence of Earl Liston, Mt. Sterling.

Liston told the department someone broke into his garage Friday night and took a tool box and tools valued at $357.

Bank Burns In California

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — Fire burned the campus branch of the Bank of America at the University of California at Irvine today. "Death to the Pgs" and other messages were sprayed on the outside walls with black paint, authorities said.

No one was hurt in the 12:13 a.m. blaze. It was the second major fire at a campus branch of the world's largest bank this year in California. Last February demonstrators, saying the bank represented the Establishment, burned down a branch in Isla Vista adjacent to the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Other Bank of America branches were targets of fire-bombers and window-breakers. Investigators said the fire at Irvine, 50 miles south of Los Angeles, was "of highly suspicious origin," adding they could not immediately determine the cause or if arson was committed. There was no reported explosion.

The bank's interior was burned out causing an estimated $125,000 damage, officials said. Nine other businesses in the same two-story concrete building on the north edge of the campus suffered smoke damage. The bank occupies the first floor.

Community Action Slates Ashville Meet

A meeting will be held Tuesday in Ashville to elect a representative from that area to serve on the Pickaway County Community Action board of trustees.

Meeting time is 7 p.m. at the Church of Christ in Christian Union in Ashville.

PICCA Sets Meeting

PICCA executive committee will meet 7 p.m. tonight and the board of trustees will meet 7:30 p.m. tonight at the St. Phillips Episcopal Church Parish House.

Fair Traffic Causes 5-Car Pileup

One person, failing to notice the car before him stopped for traffic, caused a four-car pileup on Route 23 Saturday just south of the village of South Bloomfield. A very few minutes after this accident occurred, a fifth driver added his vehicle to the collision when he failed to observe the line of stopped autos.

Cited in the first incident at 7 p.m. Saturday night was Foster C. Wehner, 49, of Alliance. Investigating Highway Patrolmen charged the Alliance man with failure to keep assured clear distance in causing the four-car chain reaction collision.

Wehner and five others in the vehicles were injured, all slightly, and referred to doctors for treatment.

Wehner failed to stop for traffic at a standstill in front of him and forced two other cars into a car driven by a Pataskala man, 47-year-old Carl L. Pettifor. Drivers of the other cars were Robert L. Tweeksbury, 16, of Grove City and David J. Morehart, 19, of Reynoldsburg. Damage to vehicles varied from $50 on the Pettifor car to $2,000 on Morehart's.

Two minutes later a 51-year-old Columbus man not noticing the stopped vehicles, plowed into the rear of Wehner's auto. Ray F. Newell, driver of the last car, was cited by the Patrol for failure to keep assured clear distance ahead.

Newell and three passengers in his auto from Newark and Columbus were taken to Mercy Hospital for treatment by Mader's ambulance.

Neither driver was reported cited in another rear-end crash investigated Sunday evening by the Highway Patrol.

Clarence Spradlin, 55, of Ashville, was fined $150 and costs and given a 60-day suspended jail sentence by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb.

Valentine entered a plea of guilty to writing a fraudulent check. Judge Lamb placed him on probation for one year.

Peter F. Phalen, 31, Columbus, was fined $150 and costs sentenced to three days in the county jail and had his operator's license suspended for six months for driving while intoxicated and $100 and costs for driving while he had no license.

Other local motorists appearing on the completed court docket were:

Patty Lou Stump, 29, Route 3, $19 bond forfeiture for speeding 45 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone; Jeffrey Lee Writsel, 20, Orient, $24 bond forfeiture for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone; Elmer Curtis Wheeler, 40, Ashville, $19 bond forfeiture for speeding 60 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone; Hartford Conley, 37, Route 3, Mt. Sterling; $25 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone; Bernard M. Davis, 27, Kingston, $20 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

IT WON'T HURT — The old phrase which doctors tell their patients when preparing to administer shots apparently is true in this case. Pauline "Tommy" Kirkpatrick, Circleville's Health Nurse, gives a willing young volunteer her TB test which are required now for all participating in any food handling program. The free test is also a practical addition to any person's annual checkup.

Circleville Health Department Offers Many Services

EDITOR'S NOTE — Following is the sixth of a series of articles focusing on the work of each department and board which are necessary in the government of Circleville. In this article, some of the services of the Circleville Health Department and the health nurse are explained.

By MICHELE HULSE
Herald Staff Writer

It is a common occurrence that healthy people do not consider often the services such as are offered by the Circleville Health Department. Those in need of its aid, however, are very grateful that such an agency exists here.

The entire health administration consists of the city Health Board — made up of the mayor and five local citizens, a health commissioner, part-time sanitarian, clerk-registrar and the health nurse. Even with this for a city of nearly 12,000, Circleville is short-handed to provide all the services required by its population.

With so many doctors unable or unwilling to make house calls, the bulk of this falls on the shoulders of the nurse, Pauline (Mrs. Charles) Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick's daily schedule includes visits to chronic patients in need of medical attention who are unable to be taken to a doctor

Testers Tested For Race Bias

CHICAGO (AP) — Job seekers who have faced a barrage of aptitude, intelligence quotient and other tests now can apply under new guidelines from the Equal Employment Opportunity Commissions.

Under the new guidelines, the testers must now submit to a test showing that their techniques accurately predict whether or not the job applicant can perform the job.

They are designed to avoid charges of racial, sex or other types of bias.

Commerce Clearing House said that while tests may still be used, they must be validated. This means that the tests must show they accurately measure some skill, knowledge, aptitude or characteristic that is relevant to the job in question.

'Typical' Voter Says She's Independent

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Forty-six-year-old Bette Lowery of Fairborn admits she has a "great responsibility" to her fellow Americans, but quickly adds, "I'm an independent cuss."

Mrs. Lowery is supposed to be the "typical American" voter in a nation of more than 200 million people. But that was before all the publicity.

Mrs. Lowery is the typical American voter because she fits the description put forth by Richard Scammon and Ben J. Watenberg in their recent book, "The Real Majority."

She is 46, white, wife of a machinist, holder of a high school diploma and lives in the Dayton area.

Teays Valley Voters Face School Levy

When the voters in the Teays Valley Local School District go to the polls on Nov. 3, they will face two issues. One is a 4.6 mill bond issue for the purpose of constructing space to house the increasing student population. That issue is being presented for the third time.

The second issue which the voters will decide is a four (4) mill levy to produce current operating monies. The need for more money is obvious when one looks at the demand of the school budget compared with the income according to school officials.

"Inflation" and growth have caught up with us," they said. "More students mean more teachers and more supplies. Inflation touches every item in your Teays Valley Schools — from textbooks to pencil sharpeners, from floor wax to paper towels — just as it has touched you personally. But these items are incidental when compared with our efforts to provide and maintain quality staff. Now we need more money — not to add — but to keep present programs and to keep pace with rising costs."

"There are no shortcuts to paying our school bills, nor are there any shortcuts to meeting our commitment to the children of our district. No one cures the ills of the world by short-changing children's education," they added.

"The need for four mills can be justified to offset the current needs. Presently, the budget requires more expenditure than there is income; with the average cost per pupil in excess of $500, it is obvious what, an increase of pupils will do to the budget. One school in the district has over one hundred more pupils this school year than last. We now have the obligation to meet the commitment to vocational education; we will have additional building space to operate. All of these realities are bound to cost more money."

Officials said that although it may not be a popular solution, the local tax is still the only available means of efficient support of schools. Local dollars spent for schools are efficient dollars. Increasing taxes at the local level to support the school program is a sacrifice. But it can also become a sound investment — an investment in the quality of education for the future citizens of our community. "It is our turn to test our faith; to show our children our real values and to accept our responsibility as citizens of this community."

Next: Clerk-Registrar

Using this description, a Dayton newspaper and the International Association of Machinists pinpointed Mrs. Lowery, employed in a Fairborn bookstore, 10 miles from Dayton.

Wearing her new title, she now plans to hit the campaign trail in Ohio and possibly Illinois for candidates in the Nov. 3 elections.

Howard M. Metzenbaum, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, has asked Mrs. Lowery personally to campaign with him Tuesday and Wednesday around the state. Mrs. Lowery has accepted.

Metzenbaum is engaged in a tight race with his Republican opponent, Robert Taft Jr.

She also has been contacted by representatives of Adlai Stevenson III, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate in Illinois.

How does Mrs. Lowery stand on the issues if the day? Here's a sampling:

—"I have no objections as long as hippies are clean. I knew them before they had long hair. They buy the best books in the store."

—"We've made a commitment to help in Vietnam, but we spend too much money, especially for mercenary troops. If I knew what to do, I'd be in Washington, knocking on doors."

—"I'm inclined to think President Nixon promises more than he's going to fulfill."

—"Crime is appalling, but we have a very efficient police force, and I don't say that just because my brother is on the force."

—"Blacks are just more people. I judge people as individuals, not as a group."

Mrs. Lowery says she is a registered Democrat, "but I don't necessarily vote a straight ticket." She describes herself as an independent who has missed only one primary since her 21st birthday.

"I make my own decisions," she says, "and write down on a list before I go to vote. And that's it."

Referring to her tag as typical voters, Mrs. Lowery says, "It's a great responsibility. I will try my best to represent the people in a dignified way."

But she's quick to quip, "I still plan to give my own personal views."

When asked what she will do on the campaign trail, Mrs. Lowery says, "I'll just be me and just say what I feel."

Metzenbaum, Taft Clash On Pace Of Viet Pullout

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Howard M. Metzenbaum, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, called Sunday for a definite timetable for withdrawal of troops from Vietnam, while his Republican opponent, Robert Taft Jr., said he supports

"responsible withdrawal from Vietnam."

The two candidates plus John O'Neill, Socialist Labor Party candidate, and Richard Kay, American Independent Party candidate, appeared Sunday on Columbus Town Meeting, a local TV program.

Metzenbaum said he supported the Nixon Administration's proposal for a cease fire in Vietnam, but added he wanted to see a firm timetable for withdrawal from the conflict.

Taft said President Nixon's cease-fire plan was advantageous because it might have helped to produce serious peace talks with the North Vietnamese and National Liberation Front Paris.

Taft called the Poseidon submarine-launched missile system "vital." But Metzenbaum said the nation could do without the system because the U.S. possesses "sufficient overkill."

Kay said the U.S. should avoid spilling American blood in the Middle East and charged both Democrats and Republicans have played politics with American lives in Vietnam.

O'Neill said cutting defense spending and reducing the draft would result in a depression because of the U.S. capitalistic form of government.

In the gubernatorial race, Mark Shields, campaign manager for Democrat John J. Gilligan, said Gilligan's "honest approach to our problems is winning support among virtually every voting group."

Shields, in a statement released in Columbus, said Gilligan's lead in the polls indicates voters are responding favorably to "our campaign based on the real issues facing Ohioans."

Meanwhile, Gilligan's opponent, Republican Roger Cloud, said Sunday as governor, he will seek immediately added state support for law enforcement agencies, better training for police and sheriff departments and better pay to attract more men to law enforcement.

Cloud, speaking at a Republican rally in Lorain, said he will also urge tough law measures "within the limits of the constitution" to protect Ohioans from criminals and revolutionaries.

Claim News Media Ignoring Prisoners

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The nation's news media have been ignoring U.S. servicemen missing or taken prison in the Vietnam war, says the state coordinator of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia.

Mrs. Burt W. Campbell of Amherst charged the major wire services and broadcast networks do not use available government figures on war prisoners and missing prisoners. She said she has written media officials demanding an explanation.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Alcoholism can be grounds for divorce in Kentucky but not drug addiction.

Reaction To Nixon Talk Not Bright

WASHINGTON (AP) — A veteran diplomat's crisp remark summed up what many believe today about prospects for President Nixon's bid for peaceful U.S.-Soviet competition to improve world conditions.

Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium, president of the United Nations General Assembly's first session in 1946, was asked if Nixon's appeal to the Kremlin—delivered in a U.N. speech Friday—is likely to lead to anything.

"Not immediately, and not here," Spaak said. "It's a long road."

The top Moscow representative at the U.N.'s 25th anniversary session, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, was strictly noncommittal.

"I want to study it thoroughly," Gromyko said of Nixon's speech. He added, "We are still firmly for peace."

Nixon himself clearly did not expect any speedy development wiping out what he portrayed as the post-World War II pattern of big powers jockeying for maximum advantage in every situation.

He said the deep U.S.-Soviet differences have caused "much of the world's—and the U.N.'s—most grievous troubles" and improved relations between the two superpowers are needed to lay a base for global peace.

Nixon said the nuclear super-states should abandon "the old patterns of powder politics" for a new road. He added:

"I invite the leaders of the Soviet Union to join us in taking that new road—to join in a peaceful competition, not in the accumulation of arms but in the dissemination of progress; not in the building of missiles but in waging a winning war against hunger and disease and human misery in our own countries around the globe."

The President cited four incentives for Washington and Moscow to curb their differences: the danger of nuclear exchange, the huge arms burden, the potential economic gain from expanding U.S.-Soviet trade and pressing economic and social needs of others around the world.

He dwelt only briefly on specific current crises. He called on the Big Two powers to work for peace in the Mideast rather than risk nuclear confrontation. O Vietnam he said, "Let us agree to a cease-fire and negotiate peace."

For the 127-nation U.N., Nixon endorsed eight endeavors ranging from foreign aid to population control. Among them was an appeal to the world body to press for observance of the Geneva codes on prisoners of war.

The United States says Hanoi and the Viet Cong are not living up to the Geneva rules for fair treatment of war prisoners.

Lawmen Need Protection

There is no doubt that assaults on police officers have increased dramatically in recent years, and show an accelerated upswing so far in 1970. The statistics on such crimes proves this point.

What is not yet clear is whether these crimes in particular, and perhaps some others, are the result of a concerted effort by militant leftist groups.

That is one of the points the Senate Internal Security subcommittee holding hearings on the attacks on peace officers ought to try to clarify. Regardless of whether a nationwide conspiracy does exist, the need for positive tools to fight such crimes should be apparent.

California's history of assaults against police officers, a pattern common in other states, points to the need. In the last 10 years 81 officers have been killed in California — 15 of them in the first 7½ months of this year. In 1967, prosecutions for police assaults totaled 362. Last year, there were 1,215 cases.

Several remedial measures are under consideration by the subcommittee, almost all of them designed to tighten federal control over crimes inflicted upon officers of the law. One proposal would make it a federal crime to travel across state lines to assault a policeman, or to incite or teach others to do so. Other proposals would bar interstate flight to avoid prosecution for killing policemen or firemen, and would authorize the use of the FBI in such cases.

While all of these would erode state responsibilities to a degree, they may be the only answer to the escalating war — and that is exactly what it is — against the lawman.

Security Seive

Leave it to an enterprising reporter to demonstrate how ineffective the nation's security protection is for its most important Washington offices. Newsman Ken Hartnett, adorned with a full beard and carrying a yellow shoe box under his arm, made his rounds through almost every building in Washington terrorists might like to attack, and although guards were in evidence almost everywhere, only once — at the Supreme Court building — was he or his box challenged.

Otherwise the reporter's walk to the Pentagon offices of Sec. of Defense Laird and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, through the Capitol, Justice Department, Senate Office Building, Internal Revenue Service, Post Office Department, Interior Department and General Services Administration was as uneventful as if he had been touring his own neighborhood.

Only hours before his stroll the GSA had issued instructions throughout the federal departments to tighten security precautions because of the wave of terrorist bombings.

Fortunately, that shoe box contained only shoes. But the ease with which the reporter was able to take what should have been a package calling for inspection almost anywhere he wished has brought a new definition of "security" to Washington.

Halitosis Report

Halitosis may be more than a social offense. It may be a sign of too much pollution, in the atmosphere that is. This is the word from the head of the cardiopulmonary laboratory at St. Vincent's Hospital in New York.

Dr. Stephen Ayres took breath samples from New Yorkers over a four-week period. What he found was more than a case of bad breath. Nonsmokers were found to have up to 2 per cent concentration of carbon monoxide in their blood — about four times the level found in rural areas.

Smokers recorded a concentration of about 4 per cent. Dr. Ayres calculates a concentration above 5 per cent as harmful to the brain and heart. Manhattan smokers, he said, have a carbon monoxide level in their blood "at a point where we are concerned about damage."

Taking breath samples may not relieve pollution, but if enough people knew what was really behind "telltale breath" the shock might be enough to generate action.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One out of 12 Americans suffers from chronic headaches. Doctors find physical causes in only one out of 10 cases. They believe the other nine result from tensions. The best treatment: lead a calmer life cut down on needless worrying.

Here's one thing you can quit worrying about: How long will Niagara Falls last? The falls, which are gradually being worn away are expected to disappear some 22,800 years from now.

Why do 350,000 U.S. firms go out of business each year? Chiefly to be blamed is management incompetence, says Dun & Bradstreet, not fires, floods or other natural disasters.

Did you think aerial photography was something new? Actually, the first aerial photographs were made over Paris from a balloon in 1858.

Quotable notables: "It annoys many when I talk about blue eyes, but any man who ever amounted to a damn in history had them." — Arthur Brisbane.

Know your language: Ever wonder why "the little red schoolhouse" was red and not some other color? It wasn't for esthetic reasons but because red paint was the cheapest paint. So many school boards painted their schools red to save money that "the little red schoolhouse" became a national symbol of popular education.

For the record: When the idea of an international peacekeeping body was conceived during World War II, it was first called the Associated Powers. It was President Franklin D. Roosevelt who proposed with Prime Minister Winston Churchill's warm endorsement, that the name be changed to the United Nations.

Long and short of it: Insects have a tremendous range of longevity, depending on their species. Some plant aphids have a life expectancy of only 12 days or less, but a queen termite may rule her wood consuming subject for as long as 50 years.

Fat fights back: No matter how hard they try, most overweight people appear unable to lose their excess weight permanently. Dr. Morton B. Glenn, New York obesity expert, says, "Eighty-five per cent of all diets fail, but each failure provides a valuable key to successful weight control."

It was Anatole France who observed, "Human justice is different from God's justice, and generally opposed to it."

TODAY In History

In 1905, Sweden recognized the independence of Norway.

In 1916, during World War I, President Woodrow Wilson declared: "I believe that the business of neutrality is over. The nature of modern warfare leaves no state untouched."

In 1920, the lord mayor of Cork, Ireland, Terence MacSwiney, died in prison after a 75-day hunger strike against British rule.

In 1942, during the Pacific war, the U.S. aircraft carrier Hornet was sunk in fighting in the Solomon Islands.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

MALCOLM FORBES told a banquet audience recently, "Much of the behavior of unruly campus youth leaders reminds me of the French Revolutionary politician who called a halt to an interview when he saw a mob storming by. 'I must learn where they're headed for,' explained the politician. 'I'm their leader!'"

The late W. C. Fields was extremely touchy about his oversized, over-red nose, and his drinking buddies dreamed up countless, heartless gags about it. Artist John Decker declared that it would make a perfect taillight on a hearse. Gene Fowler, hearing a shattering noise in Fields' neighborhood, circulated a rumor that the great man's proboscis had exploded.

Fields came a cropper when he tried to insert his famous golf routine into a picture about a princess and her knight-errant. "There's neither rhyme nor reason for your golf act in a picture like that," explained Director Greg La Cava patiently. "Why not?" persisted Fields. "She can play the caddy."

QUICKIES:

Henny Youngman, deploring the fall-off in business in the nation's night clubs, declares that a lonely customer in one place presented a twenty-dollar bill in payment and asked for his change. They made him a partner.

Myron Cohen tells of a proud patroness at a Catskill resort who was asked how old her grandchildren were. She answered, "The doctor is four, the lawyer is eight."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

One of your readers wrote you that he often gets a choking spasm while eating. Could you repeat the instructions you gave him?

Mrs. D. H. E., Maryland
Dear Mrs. E.: Choking spasms occur frequently to many people without any provocation. Everyone who writes me about it describes the sensation during the time of the attack.

They are petrified and have a feeling they are going to choke to death. They break out into a cold perspiration, grow pale and terrify everyone who watches them.

All these people want to be left alone, free of the inevitable smack on the back that does nothing but make them more miserable. If they are forced to drink a glass of water or to chew something, the spasm gets worse.

Let me explain how this spasm occurs, and perhaps you will better understand how easily you can help yourself during ily you can help yourself during one of these episodes. A small piece of food or a drop of water may fall on the vocal cords.

As a protective device, the vocal cords come together to keep that foreign substance from going down into the larynx, through the trachea and into the lungs. Because of this position of the vocal cords, air does not pass freely into the lungs. This gives the sensation of choking.

Now try this. If such a spasm occurs again, breathe in and out rapidly through the nose. Do not swallow saliva or any liquid, because the spasm will immediately begin again. This is the key to the rapid release of the spasm.

Remember that you will not choke to death or "die" because of lack of air. The very worst that can happen is that you may develop a sense of faintness because of the lack of oxygen. If you faint, the spasm will disappear.

A good rule to avoid the frequency of these spasms is to pay attention to the process of eating and drinking. Avoid rapid eating while engaged in active conversation. This, too, will reduce the frequency and severity of these terrifying but not dangerous experiences.

Irony North Of The Border

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I hope the irony is not lost on Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Canada. It was a matter of days before the Ottawa government's recognition of Red China that the extremist Front for the Liberation of Quebec, pursuing Maoist guerrilla tactics, seized a British diplomat and kidnapped and killed Pierre Laporte, the Quebec Minister of Labor. The Canadian government broke the American front when it countenanced easy dealings with revolutionary Cuba, and it is now working at cross purposes with established U.S. policy by its efforts to seat Red China in the UN.

For their pains in trying to make Castro and Mao Tse-tung respectable in the eyes of the world, the Canadians are learning that they are not exempt from the terrorist tactics which Maoists and Castros regard as standard procedure in all wars of "national liberation." It does not matter whether the Front for the Liberation of Quebec has ties with Havana or not; the point is that Maoism, as state of mind, is spreading everywhere.

The Taiwan Chinese, always polite, do not taunt Prime Minister Trudeau with any "I told you so's." But they are properly dismayed by what they consider to be the Canadian government's betrayal of its word. It was just as recently as May 18, 1968, that Mr. Michel Sharp, the Canadian Minister for External Affairs, was saying: "We won't sacrifice our relations with the government on Taiwan to do it" — the "it" being recognition of Peking. In March of 1968 Pierre Trudeau, not yet the Prime Minister, was quoted as saying that he wouldn't recognize Red China if it involved breaking with Taiwan. Later on in the year, when he wobbled and waffled on the subject of a deal with Peking, he said: "Our concern is that the government of Taiwan not be disregarded in the process."

So much for good intentions. The point is that, just about a month after Michel Beaubien, the spokesman for the Canadian delegation to the 25th session of the UN General Assembly, had denied that Canada and Red China had "successfully completed" negotiations for exchanging ambassadors, the recognition has become a fait accompli. And it has very definitely "involved breaking with Taiwan."

This has fired up the emulative propensities of Sen. Jakob Javits of New York, who wants to see the U.S. abandon its opposition to bringing the Maoists to the House of Glass on New York's East River. Javits, who is very much worried about the guerrilla threat to Israel, must be aware that George Habash, the leader of the Arab Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, is a Marxist with Maoist ties. Habash keeps pictures of Mao and North Vietnam's General Giap on his office wall. Yet, with his neatly compartmentalized way of looking at the world, Sen. Javits can't see that encouragement of Peking must encourage all the revolutionists in the world who follow the guerrilla precepts that have been urged on "liberation" movements everywhere by Red China's Lin Biao and by Mao Tse-tung himself.

Will the U.S. cave in and withdraw its opposition to the seating of Red China in the UN? It could hardly come about at once, if only for the cynical reason that Washington is not yet ready to take one side or the other in the struggle that is now going on between Moscow and Peking for control of the world Communist movement. It is no secret in the corridors at the UN that the Russian Communists, though they give lip service to the idea of admitting Red China to the UN, do not really want to see Mao Tse-tung get a world forum by sending a delegation to New York. The Russian Communists would call it an unfriendly act if the U.S. were to follow the example of Canada and shift its vote.

The U.S., of course, has given its word to the Taiwan Chinese that their right to rule in their own island will not be compromised by anything we may choose to do. But words aren't worth much when they go against interests. Quite aside from questions of honor, Washington won't sell Taiwan down the river until it is ready to slide with Mao Tse-tung in his quarrel with Moscow. That day won't come unless we have an open rupture with Moscow on Berlin or the Middle East.

Pumpkin Queens Named At TVHS

By STEPHANIE DENMAN
Diane Noecker was Teays Valley's junior representative for Miss Pumpkin Show. She is 16 and resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Noecker, at Route 1, Ashville.

Diane takes part in many activities. She is on the school's gymnastic team and like swimming, skiing, and ice skating. Enrolled in the college prep course, her favorite subject is Spanish.

Some of her favorites are the color green, ice cream, and the song "In-A-Gadda-Da-Vida." She dislikes sweet potatoes.

Kathy Davis was Teays Valley's senior representative for Miss Pumpkin Show. She is 17 and resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Davis, at Route 1, Ashville.

Kathy takes part in many activities, including the gymnastic team, cheerleading, bowling, horseback riding, swimming, and other outdoor sports.

She is enrolled in the business course at school, and her favorite subject is Shorthand II. Kathy plans to do secretarial work after finishing high school, and she may attend a business school.

Some of Kathy's favorites are the color olive green, steak and the song, "I'll Be There." Her comment on her dislikes is, "There's not too much I dislike except people who aren't themselves."

Kathy says of being elected representative of her class, "Being chosen Miss Teays Valley is an honor for me. There are a lot of outstanding people here to represent."

FFA, FHA Plan Chicken Supper

By WENDY HOFF
Teays Valley High School FFA and FHA are sponsoring their annual chicken barbeque from 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. October 30, in the school cafeteria. Tickets are presently on sale from the home economics and vocational agriculture students at Teays Valley for children and adults. There will be no admittance without tickets. Sales will end Wednesday, October 28.

Included on the menu is barbequed chicken; a choice of two from coe slaw, potato salad, baked beans, or potato chips; a beverage, milk, coffee, or orange juice; buttered bread and choice of pie.

Earth, like the planet Jupiter, sporadically emits low-frequency radio signals which still mystify scientists.

A total of 168 Teays Valley High School students earned a B or 3.0 average or better during first six weeks. Seniors led the classes in numbers on the honor roll, with 53 or 33.6 per cent of the class; juniors followed with 44 or 26 per cent; freshmen, 44 of 22.5 per cent; and sophomores, 27 or 15 per cent.

Rocky Orders Apple A Day

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has ordered that at least an apple a day be given to residents of institutions operated by the state Departments of Social Services and Mental Hygiene.

"If everyone would eat an apple a day all would be better off," Rockefeller said.

New York State is a major producer of apples.

Manson At Tate Estate, He Says

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a surprise move, Charles Manson took the stand at the Sharon Tate murder trial and announced that he had visited the slain actress' plush estate several times.

"I pride myself on truth, even when it hurts," said the shaggy-haired Manson, testifying late Friday at a special session outside the presence of the jury. "I've been at the residence on five or six occasions and I have never said I have not been at the residence," Manson said.

However, Manson said he was only on the estate, never inside the mansion where the actress and four visitors were slain Aug. 9, 1969.

British Officer Freed By Chinese

HONG KONG (AP) — Looking "thin, pale and tired," a British officer detained in Communist China for 2½ years crossed into Hong Kong Saturday.

Peter Crouch was taken from the merchant vessel Demodocus when it was in Shanghai in April 1968. He told Hong Kong immigration officials at Lo Wu border crossing that he was informed of his impending release last Thursday.

Spirit And Drive Are Key To Win, Cheerleaders Feel

By DIANE OLIVER

The reserve team is cheered on by seven girls this year — three sophomores, two juniors, and two seniors.

Joann Brown, senior, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Brown, at Route 1, Ashville. Her favorite activities are GAA, FTA, and cheerleading. Joann says, "I think our team has a lot of spirit and drive and will really go far."

Wendy Brown, junior, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brown, at Route 1, Groveport. Her favorite activities are secretary and treasurer of the Student Council, GAA, Spanish Club, FTA, and captain of the reserve cheerleaders.

Wendy says of the reserve team, "We've got a great team, and I'm proud to cheer for them. We need more spirit among the student body in our school."

Jill Ehman, sophomore, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Ehman, at Route 2, Orient. Her favorite activities include Drama Club, GAA, and being a cheerleader. Jill says, "Our school is the greatest, and we have a number-one team to show it."

Kathy Davis, senior, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Davis, at Route 1, Ashville. In addition to being a cheerleader, she was the Pumpkin Show Queen candidate for the senior class.

Kathy says, "We've really got a good team with the best coaches, and I'm sure that just two losses aren't going to keep us from getting to the top."

Vicki Gochenour, sophomore, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gochenour, at Route 2, Ashville. She includes in her activities band, 4-H, Drama Club, and being a cheerleader.

Debbie says, "Our school spirit has really improved, and students are really backing up the team."

Linda Sanderson, junior, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marlon Sanderson, at Route 1, Ashville. Her favorite activities are being head major-ette for the band, 4-H, and being a cheerleader.

Linda says of the reserve team, "We've got a great team, and they've got a lot of spirit."

ENGAGED — Susan Elaine Eisenhower, 18, granddaughter of the late president and daughter of the United States ambassador to Belgium, is engaged to marry a British barrister, Alexander Hugh Bradshaw, 29, her family announced in Brussels.

Tempt The Breakfast On Homemade Muffins

By ALICE DENHOFF

The return of autumn brings with it, busier, more settled routines, the youngsters off to school, shopping, various community projects and activities. All of which means that it is vital to start the day with a good and nourishing breakfast.

But, alas, for some, breakfast, while nourishing, is somewhat pedestrian. So along with the basics, it is a good notion to add some enticing extras, good nutrition in themselves, but real treats just the same.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official weather bureau summary for Ohio:

Heavy fog blanketed much of the state this morning. It was especially dense and widespread across the northern third and in areas near the Ohio River upstream from Cincinnati.

Temperatures at 6 a.m. showed quite a wide range—in the lower 50s in the west while in the eastern part of the state readings ranged from a low of 39 in Zanesville to 41 in Youngstown and 42 in Canton-Akron.

A cold front moving eastward raises the probability of some rainfall Tuesday but current indications are the rain will not be extensive until Tuesday night or Wednesday.

FORECASTS

OHIO—Fair tonight with little change in temperature, low up to 40s to lower 50s. Mostly sunny Tuesday with not much change in temperature, high up to 60s to middle 70s.

NORTHEAST INLAND—Fair and mild tonight, low up to 40s to lower 50s. Tuesday, mostly sunny and continued mild, high 70-75. Outlook for Wednesday, mild with chance of showers.

WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST AND SOUTHEAST—Fair and mild tonight, low in the upper 40s and lower 50s. Mostly sunny and continued warm Tuesday, high in the middle to lower 70s. Outlook for Wednesday, mild with chance of showers.

When Japan's Expo 70 closes on September 13, a time capsule of stainless steel, 39 inches in diameter, will be buried in the Senri Hills near Osaka. It will contain specimens of refined metals, alloys and ceramics, tapes, and micro-books on tiny silicon wafers, as well as that symbol of the age, a credit card, the National Geographic Society says.

Trick or Treat

After the Pumpkin show becomes a pleasant memory the next events looked forward to with eager anticipation especially the youngsters of the community are Unicef night trick or treat and the American Legion Halloween Party. Unicef will be Wednesday evening according to the United Methodist Church bulletin. The children will leave the church at 7 p.m. and call at the homes for their donations. They will then return to the church for the traditional refreshments.

Trick or treat will be held in the village on Thursday evening between the hours of 6:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. by proclamation of Mayor Ronald Bush. It is understood that there may be a straggler or two but it is hoped that these hours will be observed as closely as possible. We can not urge too strongly that little ones be accompanied by an older person and that the bigger children show caution and courtesy to one and all. AND most important of all those who are driving cars through the area do please Drive Slowly!

The Legion party will be held Saturday night at the Pavilion and will start at 7:00 p.m. Prizes will be awarded to the Prettiest, Most Original, and Ugliest. Refreshments will be served as usual.

MYF Insurance

Be sure to purchase your insurance policy against being soaked or tissue wrapped this Halloween. The members of Senior MYF will sell a package deal at $2.50 or individual rates are available.

To paraphrase you can take a person out of Pickaway County but come Pumpkin Show time they all come home. It was full house and a joyous one at Don Sr. and Jean Cook's. Daughter Diane who is junior at Ohio State brought five girl friends down for their first look-see at our show and they were delighted. Don Jr. and his wife and two beauties Beth and Marie drove in for the weekend from Lima and the extra-special friends of theirs Mr. and Mrs. Dave Ring of Cincinnati came up for the festivities and were also house guests of the Sr. Cook's. Down from Columbus came Dick and Sue Cook with adorable Lisa.

Chris Schein was in from Wilmington for the weekend and said he had also slipped up on Wednesday night. Some other "kids" I spotted at the show and football game were Steve Seaburn, Nancy Keller, JoAnne Reynolds, Donna Garrison, Bonnie Long, Cathy Miller, Terry Shaeffer, Rick Beatty, Patty Schein and Linda Mace — all home from various colleges.

Joy Lynne Drummond spent the weekend in Adelphi with grandparents Doane and Kathleen Bode while mama and papa, Marabel and David Drummond and sisters Connie and Sandee took in the Pumpkin Show.

Shannon Jackson the tall handsome son of Milbert and Wanda Jackson was here from his Springfield home for a weekend visit.

Mrs. Helen Porter and her Jimmy spent Saturday and Sunday with her sister and her family Sue and Big John Graffie, Chuckie, Littlejohn and Teresa.

Enjoying the sights and sounds of the pumpkin holiday were Mr. and Mrs. James Howell Sr. of the Warren Ohio area. They were house guests of son Jim (the fisherman) and his Betty, two little Howell dolls and young son Thad.

Mrs. Bertha Porter has had as her house guest this past week Mrs. Cleo Hart of Columbus. They are good friends of many many years.

Marcus and Elizabeth Ebenhack are recuperating nicely at their home after a several weeks hospitalization for them both at Chillicothe Hospital. Mrs. E. was scheduled to return to the hospital Wednesday for further x-rays and possible treatment but she was uncertain as to whether she would remain. They are both grateful for the many cards, kindnesses and gifts showered on them by their host of friends.

Mr. John Steinhauser reports that Mr. Irvan Pickel who is a patient at Circleville Home and Hospital remains about the same.

John has been a mighty busy individual up to this point since he made all the floral arrangements for daughter Jill's wedding to Jeff Garmire this immediate past Saturday. Jill is allergic to real flowers so father's hobby became a blessing.

With heavy heart we acknowledge the too soon passing of one of our village residents who was one of the best. Ted Corcoran will long be remembered by all who had the privilege of knowing him and being counted as his friend. His infectious and unique chuckle with the wide grin was like a trademark. Never to be duplicated and never to be forgotten. To his widow Nell Jean (Sis) and his mother Mrs. Fred Corcoran we offer our sincere sympathy and with them we grieve, we grieve.

Several persons were in our area this past week, called here by Ted's death. His brother and wife Mr. and Mrs. John Corcoran of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Mr. and Mrs. Howard LeBeau and Mrs. David Fogle from Illinois all were at the home of Mrs. Fred Corcoran, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Moore of Jacksonville, N. Carolina spent time with his sister Mrs. Ted Corcoran.

Our Amy has been on the receiving end of so many lovely gifts, flowers, cards and remembrances that it staggers the imagination. Truly we do have kind and generous folks in this world and especially in our town. She is recuperating from her surgery and returns to her doctor for a check-up and lab reports this Monday (Oct. 26). She was permitted a brief visit to watch the pet parade but became "tuckered out" rather quickly. Happier days are just around the corner I hope.

Happy Birthday

John Valone, John Grigsby, Richard Lemaster, Betty Riddle, Nov. 1; Tim Bush, Sheree Christopher, Nov. 2; Charles Thatcher, Marsha Reynolds, Clark, Frank Akers, Nov. 3; Max Walker, Billy Miller, Nov. 4; Joyce Tarbill, Terry Hanson, Verna Grabill, Herschel Litter, George Myers, Arizona Francis, Betty Shaeffer, Art Dick, Nov. 5; Beverly Minor Brown, Glenna Wisecup, Becky Sue Myers, Wade Strausbaugh, Nov. 6; Eric Palmer, Brian Eitel (my fella), Shirley Ann Thompson Nov. 7; Donald Draise, Bill Reay, Nov. 8; Karen Streitenberger, Kenneth Shell, Lisa Seaggs, Nov. 9.

As we mentioned, the Pumpkin Show is now a memory but one question still lingers on in my mind. Why is it that Thursday I paid a certain price for a purchase and on Saturday that same purchase cost me thirty cents more? This was from a local merchant too. The game of high prices seemed to be played all over the place but to have one of our own gouge, well it hurt.

Ground Plastic Used In Cement

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — Robert W. Layer Jr., an architect who is active in environmental activities in the Fox Valley area, is experimenting with ground plastic as an ingredient in concrete.

Involved in a research project sponsored by the Society of the Plastics Industry, Layer mixed 150 pounds of ground polyethylene scrap plastics as an experiment.

The scrap was used as partial replacement for sand. Tests showed the plastic-concrete mix was 10 to 15 per cent lighter in weight. Although still when poured, the material was still workable with a trowel. And subject to vibrations from machinery and heavy equipment, it did not crack.

Layer said the mixture is known as "plascete" and will remain in the public domain because he and his fellow scientists do not plan to seek a patent on the substance.

Although corn grows as high as 20 feet, it is a form of grass and sometimes is called "giant grass."

PERCHED PRETTILY — On a pumpkin Little Miss Stephanie Jones and Senior Miss Vanessa Hatfield offered a pretty pose for photographers at Roundtown's "pumpkin patch" on West Main. Saturday ended the gala street carnival, but the two pretty misses will reign until next October, representing Circleville and the Pumpkin at other fairs and festivals all over Ohio.

Dear Abby: A Perfect Marriage Except . . .

DEAR ABBY: I am 40 and well established in the college teaching profession, married and have two children. My wife and I were childhood sweethearts. We are active in church and community affairs. Ours is truly good marriage except for one thing: Our sex life has gradually come to a standstill. We have talked about it, especially in the light of my being more fit, vigorous and energetic than most men my age. She says she cannot help it—the spark just isn't there anymore. It's not menopause either.

Otherwise we are compatible. We hardly ever argue and we never fight. We still say to each other, "I love you" and we really mean it.

I recently met a woman of beauty and breeding I am positive that this woman would be my mistress if I asked her

Adult Charged With Non-Support

A 47-year-old Circleville man was before the Pickaway County Juvenile Court recently on a charge of non-support.

Robert Clark, 165 W. Main St., was found guilty of the charge and ordered to pay $15 a week through the juvenile court support bureau for his daughter's care.

A 12-year-old Mt. Sterling girl was placed in the permanent care of the Pickaway County Children Services upon a report by Sylvia Johnson, PCCS executive secretary. Three children, 8, 7 and 5 years of age, were temporarily placed in the board's care when their parents were judged incapable of providing proper care for them.

Charged with disorderly conduct was a 17-year-old Ashville mother. She was arrested near the Buffalo Inn in South Bloomfield in a ruckus centered on a marital dispute. She was fined $50.

A 14-year-old girl was found guilty and given three years probation for being truant from Circleville schools.

A $50 fine was levied against a 17-year-old Turlington boy, charged with assault with a deadly weapon in an incident this past summer at the A & P parking lot. Several boys were injured by pellets from a shotgun he fired ricocheting off the pavement. Judge Guy Cline further ordered the youth not to have a gun in his possession other than with his father hunting.

William A. Boltenhouse, 17, of 229 West St., lost his driving privileges for 30 days when found guilty of speeding. Also cited for speeding was Elizabeth Rooker, Route 4. Her license was restricted for 60 days to driving to school and tutoring only.

STILL WAITING

DEAR STILL: No. Look at it this way. You started with no gift from her, and you still have no gift. So you aren't out anything.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old girl who has just learned that I must have dentures. I have already accepted this fact so that isn't my problem. I carry insurance which will pay for my dentures, but my problem is that there is a real big mouth in our insurance department and I am sure she will tell everybody in the office that I am getting false teeth.

I would almost rather pay for them myself. Is there a solution?

FALSIES AT 24

DEAR FALSIES: Oddly enough, some big mouths also have big hearts, so why not "confide" in her and appeal to her sense of honor and kindness. I'll bet she rises to the occasion and keeps her mouth shut. P. S. If at age 24, I were told I had to have dentures, I would check with the best dentist in town, and maybe two dentists just to be sure. The better the dentist, the harder he will try to save teeth.)

Pickaway Grange

SALT CREEK VALLEY

Guided by the lecturer, Mrs. Hoyt Timmons, "October Treasures" were shared during program time for the most recent session of Saltcreek Valley Grange.

For roll call each responded with a like or dislike about the month of October. Mrs. Judson Beougher gave an explanation of color changes in leaves.

The reason for UNICEF was reviewed by Leora Sayre. This agency of the United Nations family offers a "Beacon of Hope for the World's Needy Kids."

Wayne Cryder was the first winner in October Bingo. To conclude the program, Mrs. Timmons stressed the reciprocal value of exercising good manners in a kind Christian way — every day.

Francis Fraunfelder, master, presided during the ritualistic and business portion of the meeting during which cooperative memorial thoughts were extended for Mae Groce — a Grange friend.

As legislative chairman, Wayne Cryder asked for Resolutions to send to the State meeting. He explained "The College Disturbance Act" — a new law coming into effect.

Paul Dunke, Ohio State Grange Deputy Master told of a visit to Todd Grange, the winner of the State Beautification Contest. He gave a proud report concerning the recent Officer Installation Session hosted by Mt. Pleasant Grange.

Special mention was given to Nebraska Grange for having the best representation. Details were given of the 98th Annual State Conference to be held in Akron Oct. 25-28.

A thank you note was read from David Luckhart, for flowers received while in the hospital.

A contribution was made to the Youth Installation Team.

Hospitality responsibility was shared by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Delong and Mr. and Mrs. Donald DeLong for the concluding social interlude which included "Happy Birthday" recognition for Mrs. Beougher, Mr. Cryder, Virgil Timmons and Carl Dean Sr.

For the next meeting, Nov. 30 the new meeting time of 7:30 p.m. will commence.

'Teleservice' Started By Social Security

A new telephone service at the Chillicothe social security office can handle "most social security business" without requiring personal visits to the office by the public, according to Harry Bieber, social security district manager.

"We call it Teleservice," Mr. Bieber said. "With it, we can handle a great deal of the paperwork by phone that involves such social security matters as application for benefits, change of address for prompt delivery of monthly checks, and general and specific questions about social security programs, including Medicare."

With Teleservice, he said, social security personnel can, in many instances, fill out an application for benefits over the phone, then mail the form to the beneficiary for his or her signature.

"We can also accept change of address information by phone from beneficiaries who are moving, so that delivery of their checks will not be interrupted. And, of course, we can answer questions affecting workers' retirement, Medicare, disability, and survivor protection," Bieber said.

The social security Teleservice phone number for the Chillicothe office is 775-4950 (Area 614). The hours are from 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday (holidays excepted).

Mitchell Sees No Anti-Police Ring

'Green Revolution' Proves Mixed Blessing

By JAMES PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Few Americans can grasp the significance of the "Green Revolution."

In a nation where mountains of surplus wheat and corn are commonplace and cattle are fattened on grain, the development of extremely high-yield strains of wheat and rice has little impact.

But to millions of underfed persons living in overcrowded and underdeveloped lands, the "Green Revolution" is truly the staff of life. It is chaps to a hungry Indian peasant, tortillas to Mexican and rice to an Indonesian. It has created social unrest and toppled political leaders.

Agricultural economist Lester R. Brown goes a step further in assessing its significance. "The technology represented by these new seeds will probably affect more people in a shorter period of time than any technological change in history."

If the peoples of the world can learn to curtail their birth rate, Brown adds, the new grains "hold out hope that we can make substantial progress in eliminating hunger in most of the world in this decade."

It was in recognition of this achievement—and its prospects for eliminating starvation around the globe—that the Nobel Peace Prize was awarded this week to Dr. Norman E. Borlaug, the former Iowa dirt farmer who pioneered development of the new strain of super wheat. The breakthrough enabled agronomists in 1962 to repeat the performance with rice.

In the last five years, the new grains have revolutionized agriculture in many underdeveloped countries.

To most Americans, though, the question remains: What are the new grains?

Essentially, they are redesigned wheat and rice plants about half as tall as traditional varieties. The shorter stem permits farmers to heavily fertilize the plants and double the yield. Attempts at heavy fertilization of the traditional long, thin-stemmed varieties failed because the heavy head of grain caused the plant to topple over.

In addition, the new strains proved adaptable to a wide variety of climates. The wheat that Borlaug developed in Mexico prospered from as far north as Turkey to as far south as Paraguay.

The yield of these dwarf grains is truly astounding. One leading agricultural expert said the super grains have "added conservative 20 million tons of cereal grains to the Asian food supply," or more than $2 billion worth.

All this has come about in five years. Only 200 acres of super wheat and rice were under cultivation in Asia in 1965. In 1970, more than 40 million acres of the new strains were being cultivated.

In 1965, for example, India's wheat crop totaled 12 million tons. With the introduction of super wheat, the total rose to 21 million tons in 1970—an increase of 75 per cent.

West Pakistan, a traditional importer of grain, is now an exporter of both wheat and rice.

Even more encouraging is the comparison of food production in Asia. In the mid 1960s, food production was increasing at an annual rate of 1.6 per cent while the population increased by 2 per cent a year. New land to raise more crops was rapidly diminishing. Widespread famines were predicted.

Today, however, food production is increasing at 3 to 5 per cent a year while the birth rate remains nearly the same.

But the increasing amount of food has also brought about social unrest. Farmers have doubled, tripled, and in some cases quadrupled their income. The gap between rich and poor is in some instances widening.

The social unrest brought about by the new grains is just beginning to manifest itself. It could prompt widespread land reforms throughout Asia and the underdeveloped nations.

And the political consequences are being felt. Ceylon Prime Minister Dudley Senanayake was this year ousted partly because he did not equitably distribute new shipments of super grains. Field Marshal Mohammed Ayub Khan was toppled as the president of Pakistan in part because of the inability of East Pakistan to grow the new grains.

Ferdinand E. Marcos became the first Philippine president ever to win re-election in 1969, and one of his three campaign pledges was to develop the "miracle rice."

The social unrest has prompted some persons to criticize the Green Revolution, charging it has caused more problems than it has solved.

Many, though, do not view the social problems as insurmountable. Instead, they see the new grains as a means of eliminating widespread starvation in underdeveloped nations.

But experts warn that the new grains have only delayed from 10 to 20 years the food problems facing the world if the population continues to increase at its present rate.

"The new seeds are not a panacea, not a solution to the population problem," says Brown. "The agronomists have done what they can do. It's up to the family planners."

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Somewhere toward the end of Sunday night's "The Wacky Zoo of Morgan City," a self-seeking politician was advised, "Never go against children or animals."

The statement made in the course of a multipart story spun on NBC's "Wonderful World of Disney," probably expresses as well as anything the premise that has kept the series on network air for 17 years.

Kids and animals occupy the Disney limelight much of the time. Its strength is in broad family appeal that has been building up since Disney first hit the small screens—in 1954—with a Davy Crockett series starring Fess Parker.

The most recent effort was rather typical of one type of presentation—a simple, light-hearted story that glorified children and animals. The adults are almost secondary in importance. The series if real anology, however, with a mix of drama, adventure, comedy, occasional cartoons and—probably best of all—camera studies of animal life in the wilds.

NBC launched still another of those made-for-TV "Word Premieres" features Saturday night which, more than anything, demonstrated the chance quality of the series. This was a strange hybrid that might have resulted by cross-breeding "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" with a Cousteau under-sea report.

It was called "The Aquarians," and since it was turned out by Ivan Tors who made "Flipper" and "Daktari" was probably designed as a pilot for a series. It was an elaborate science fiction story about under-sea explorers, using the kind of equipment that specializes in twinkling lights as they probed the dangerous depths.

The underwater photography was interesting. Things got really sticky when the plot was unwinding and the cameras were focusing on the human actors, proficient professionals like Ricardo Montalban and Jose Ferrer who were definitely out of their depths.

Last season's bouncy and entertaining one-hour children's special, "Hot Dog," now has been turned into a weekly half-hour children's show at noon Saturdays on NBC. The idea—then and now—is to show how ordinary and interesting things are made.

This past week in earnest centered on tooth brushes, stained glass windows and bubble gum. The show's format—and gimmick—is to surround the enlightening material with a bit of comedy.

It is a pleasant enough show, but it seems to have lost the spark that lit it as a special. The frequent commercials—mostly for toys—are pretty dreary hard-sell.

Fair, Pleasant Weather Arrives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair and pleasant weather covered most of the nation today although rain or drizzle fell along the Eastern Seaboard from North Carolina to New England and thundershowers were reported in central Oklahoma.

Snow flurries dotted the mountains from the Pacific Northwest into the North Central Rockies as far south as Denver.

Temperatures ranged early today from 18 at Kalispell, Mont., to 79 at Brownsville and Kingsville, Tex.

Prosecutor, KSU Prof Speak Out

KENT, Ohio (AP)—A prosecutor at the Kent State grand jury hearings and a Kent professor both face possible contempt charges for breaking a controversial veil of silence imposed on those dealing with the jury.

Kent geology professor Glenn Frank spoke out Sunday "in contempt of the naive and stupid conclusions of the special grand jury specifically as to the reasons for the May 4 disturbances at KSU."

Frank said he was speaking out because of a newspaper story which quoted Seabury H. Ford, a special prosecutor for the special state grand jury as saying Ford believed Ohio National Guardsmen "should have shot all" the troublemakers on campus.

Portage County Common Pleas Judge Edwin W. Jones, who ordered all persons connected with the jury probe from talking to newsmen, said "no comment" Sunday when asked whether he was considering contempt proceedings against Ford.

Jones could not be reached later Sunday for a comment on whether action was being considered against Frank.

Frank, a teacher at Kent for 17 years, said he was speaking out because Ford "also has spoken out in contempt of court."

"He should not have been speaking out. I don't intend that he just have his wrists slapped," Frank said. "I'm placing myself in contempt of court to bring this to a head...I feel that I have to force the issue."

House Democrats Start Campaigns For Leader Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the midst of campaigning for the Nov. 3 election, House Democrats have begun politicking among themselves over a new party floor leader.

Aspirants to the leadership post, object of a wide open contest for the first time in 30 years with the retirement of Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, are already hunting votes. They will step up the pace when Congress returns Nov. 16.

By then, they will know how many and what kinds of Democrats have been elected. A Democratic sweep might shift the existing balance of power within the party and the prospects of various candidates with it.

There is no lack of candidates, either announced or waiting in the wings, for the majority leader post being relinquished by Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma. Albert is unopposed among Democrats for advancement to the speaker's chair.

Among the aspirants are Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the present whip or assistant leader, a Southerner with a voting record not wholly typical of his region; Morris K. Udall of Arizona and James G. O'Hara, both leaders in the liberal Democratic Study Group; Richard Bolling of Missouri, an outspoken critic of present House and party procedures; John E. Moss of California, who also has pushed for changes, and Wayne L. Hays of Ohio, known to his colleagues as something of a maverick with a sharp tongue.

So far, Boggs has been the most active candidate, at least in the open.

Excluding those who will certainly not be in the next Congress, because of retirement or primary defeat, there are about 70 Southern Democrats generally cast in the traditional mold and about 60 strongly ideological liberals.

This leaves about 100, sometimes called regular Democrats. Most of them are from urban areas with strong party organizations. Most tend to vote on the liberal side on bread and butter issues. Many belong to the Democratic Study Group but are not particularly active in it.

Obviously a leadership candidate cannot win with the support of only one of the three groups. As the least clearly defined of the three, the big-city regular Democrat sector is the "indicated ground" for a Southern or liberal candidate to go hunting the margin of votes he needs. It is also a likely source for a compromise candidate in case of a deadlock—and some names, such as those of Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois and Edward P. Boland of Massachusetts, have been mentioned.

Boggs has undertaken to build a solid base of support among Southerners. While in the past he has departed from the usual regional line on occasion—for example, by voting for some civil rights legislation—his backers argue there is no one else in the race with whom the Southerners would feel more comfortable.

Medic Raps Nixon Policy On Health

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Dr. Paul B. Corneley, president of the American Public Health Association, says "President Nixon's attitude toward health has been deadly."

"He hasn't done a thing for health," Corneley asserted at a Sunday news conference.

As a result, he declared, voluntary health organizations are going to have to exert political pressure for the government to do "what needs to be done for the health of the people."

Corneley, professor of community health practice at Howard University, Washington, D.C., said Nixon "has the capability of using words people like to hear and not doing anything about it—words such as 'world harmony' and 'bring us together.'"

The APHA, which opened its 98th annual meeting today, has voted to move its national headquarters from New York to Washington in a step to exert more continuous influence on health affairs in the capital. The organization is broadly based and includes workers in all health fields.

Corneley also suggested in a speech prepared for today's opening session that organizations such as the American Cancer Society and the American Heart Association set aside 10 to 20 per cent of their incomes for political education.

Woman Ready For Lutheran Ordination

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A potential woman minister says the decision by the American Lutheran Church to admit women to the clergy is a step in the right direction—toward a broader recognition of women's roles in the church.

Miss Barbara Andrews, 35, of Minneapolis, says the change adopted here is a "sign of the times" in which women are demanding equal rights with men in all areas of life.

Delegates to the fifth general convention of the 2.5-million-member denomination approved a measure allowing the ordination of women in a session Saturday.

One of two women in the denomination fully qualified to enter the ministry, Miss Andrews told an interviewer she felt the major opposition to ordaining women was "tradition—the fear of change."

Only last year, Miss Andrews completed the church's required four-year study program for ordination. She has since taken an additional year of ministerial studies in counseling.

According to the church's rules, no minister may be ordained unless he is called by a congregation to be its pastor.

For the past six years, Miss Andrews has served as a lay minister with the campus team ministry at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

Miss Andrews explained that she felt she needed more theological background to do her work properly, so she began taking courses at Lutheran Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minn.

A sister denomination, the Lutheran Church in America, earlier this year approved action allowing the ordination of women.

ing rain to listen to Nixon.

One exception: his Saturday appearance in the industrial, blue collar Baltimore suburb of Dundalk, Md. In those conservative but Democratic precincts, the crowds were relatively sparse. Democratic campaign posters festooned the front of the union hall where Nixon spoke.

One administration politician acknowledged GOP Senate victories are unlikely in some of the states Nixon is visiting, among them Illinois and Minnesota. But whatever the outcome, this man said, Nixon's campaigning now will stand him in good stead in 1972.

Agnew said Nixon's campaign entry has not led to any change in his own style or tactics.

Vote On County Government Shift

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Proposals to alter the traditional form of county government will be on the ballot in two northeastern Ohio counties Nov. 3.

For voters in Cuyahoga County, the state's most populous county, this will be the fifth time since 1935 that such a change has been considered.

Four times the proposals have been defeated.

The current proposal is only a slight modification of the measure that lost last year, and there is no indication that support for the proposed changes has increased in the interim.

The Cuyahoga proposal, called the "alternate form of county government," would replace the present three county commissioners with seven commissioners elected from equally apportioned districts, plus an elected chief county executive.

The 1970 version makes only one change, setting the pay of the proposed seven commissioners at $12,500 a year, compared to $18,000 in the 1969 version.

The 1969 proposal was drafted by a committee headed by former Probate Court Judge Joseph W. Bartunek, now chairman of the county Democratic party. However, the party has failed to endorse the proposal, and County Commissioner Frank Pokorny, a Democrat, has called the measure "politically wrong" for the county and for the party.

The alternate form of government has been endorsed by Republican leader Robert E. Hughes and by the county mayors and city managers association.

Opposition apparently remains strong in the black community. William O. Walker, state industrial relations director and publisher of the Cleveland Call & Post, a weekly newspaper circulated in the black community, says he sees "no appreciable change over the last time. It's taken many years for Negroes to earn the right to be elected to public office," he added. "We don't want to be legislated out."

Negroes now comprise more than one-third of the electorate in the city of Cleveland, with its population of 738,956, but are a much smaller factor in the county, which has a population of more than 1.5 million.

County voters in 1935 approved a county charter by a slim majority, but the vote failed to stand up in a court challenge. Metropolitan government proposals were offered the voters in 1950 and 1959 but were defeated both times.

Summit county voters will consider a county charter proposals which would substitute a mayor-council form of government for the present board of commissioners. Appointed officials would replace the present elected county coroner, prosecutor, engineer, sheriff, auditor, treasurer, recorder and clerk of courts.

The proposal has the blessing of the Little Hoover Commission which was named by the Summit County Commissioners last year to recommend ways of improving county government, but some county officeholders are reported opposing the measure.

Sheriff Robert Campbell, who has been campaigning against the proposal, told the League of Women Voters in a recent speech that the only problem the Little Hoover Commission found in a study of his department was a lack of funds.

Lake County also is making moves toward a possible new form of county government. On the ballot there Nov. 3 is the question of choosing a county charter commission to frame a charter proposal for consideration of the voters in the 1971 general election.

HIGHER THAN EMPIRE STATE—The World Trade Center in New York now towers 102 stories high, 1,254 feet, four higher than the Empire State Building a few blocks away, thus making it the world's tallest skyscraper. And it's not finished yet. It goes to 110 stories on completion.

We make it our business to serve you better

...in South Central Country

Northwood Park, north of Circleville, Ohio is just one of the many pleasant communities that dot South Central Country. Here, residents live in a quiet, park-like atmosphere, far from big-city pollution, away from the pressures and stresses of urban living.

South Central Power Company finds it rewarding to serve communities such as Northwood Park. It also finds a sense of civic contribution in helping establish quiet homes for quiet people in what were empty fields. If you are fed up with the big city rat race, it might just pay you to investigate the homes in Northwood Park.

And if you're a Franklin County resident contemplating a move to South Central Country, there's an extra bonus in store for you. You'll find your electric power bills running anywhere from 12½% to 14% less per month! This difference in rate structure is only part of what we mean when we say—we make it our business to serve you better—in South Central Country.

Browns Sink Miami Dolphins, 28-0

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Hank Stram has been short-changed by the Dallas Cowboys — Duane Foster and Bob Hayes splitting the difference.

Foster and Hayes exploded for game-breaking touchdowns in the third quarter Sunday as the Cowboys bounced back from their darkest National Football League hour to whip Stram's Kansas City Chiefs 27-16.

Hayes, making his first start of the season, turned a Craig Morton pass into an 89-yard scoring burst minutes after Foster, a hard-running rookie, sped 47 yards for a touchdown.

"Those plays were the difference," said Stram, whose Super Bowl champs were jeered by a home crowd of 51,158 as they absorbed their third setback in six games.

The victory gave Dallas a 4-2 mark and a share of first place in the National Conference's Eastern Division—one week after the Cowboys took a 54-13 pounding from Minnesota.

"We didn't do anything different against Kansas City," Cowboys Coach Tom Landry insisted. "We just played football. We didn't play football against Minnesota."

Fran Tarkenton's five touchdowns passed led the New York Giants past St. Louis 35-17, dropping the Cardinals into a tie with Dallas for the NFC East lead.

Elsewhere, 43-year-old George Blanda fired Oakland to a 31-14 victory over Pittsburgh; Baltimore drubbed Boston 27-3; Cleveland pounded Miami 28-0; Washington blanked Cincinnati 20-0; Detroit shaded Chicago 16-10; Green Bay topped Philadelphia 30-17; San Francisco edged Denver 19-14; Atlanta trimmed New Orleans 32-14; Buffalo nipped the New York Jets 10-6 and San Diego played Houston to a 31-31 standoff.

Minnesota entertains Los Angeles tonight in a nationally televised clash of NFL powerhouses.

The Cowboys, beaten by Kansas City 13-0 in a pre-season exhibition, spotted the Chiefs an early touchdown, then limited them to three Jan Stenerud field goals the rest of the way.

Thomas, shouldering the running load after Calvin Hill went out with a muscle spasm, scored the go-ahead touchdown on a short plunge after Mike Clark booted a pair of field goals.

The 220-pound Thomas tallied the decisive touchdown on a draw play before Hayes took Morton's pass on the Dallas 45 and raced the rest of the way for the wrap-up score.

Tarkenton sent the Giants to their third straight victory, snapping a four-game St. Louis winning streak in the process, with the first five-touchdown spree of his career.

He completed all of his 10 pass attempts in the first half and was 15-for-18 overall, with two scoring strikes to rookie Bob Tucker and one each to Aaron Thomas, Clifton McNeil and Don Herrmann.

Ken Still Wins Kaiser Open Clash

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — "I never gave up on myself," Ken Still said. "I struggled and fought and had troubles, but I never gave up on myself."

He was talking about the season-long slump that has plagued him, but the irrepressible Still could have been talking about the long, 37-hole wind-up that brought him the $30,000 first prize in the Kaiser International golf tournament Sunday.

Still, a 35-year-old bachelor who came into his own last season with his first two tour victories and a spot on the Ryder Cup team, had to whip tough Lee Trevino and Bert Yancey on the first extra hole of a sudden death playoff.

He had gone into the 36-hole finale—forced when Friday's play was rained out—with a two stroke lead. He took a 71 in the morning round and Trevino closed to within a single stroke.

And in the afternoon, Still lost, regained, then lost the lead again with three-putt bogeys on the 15th and 16th holes. That put him one stroke back of Trevino and Yancey in the clubhouse with 278, 10 under par.

He came to the 18th, a par five, needing a birdie to tie. Still chipped to eight feet and dropped the putt for a share.

Then on the first extra hole, Still ripped an iron to within three feet of the hole and made the birdie putt that secured it. Yancey had a par from a trap and Trevino, winner of two play-offs this season, was lying three and had no chance when Still made it.

Blanda came off the Oakland bench after Daryle Lamonica was sidelined by a pinched nerve in his back and riddled the Steelers with three touchdown passes. He also booted a field goal and four extra points.

The Colts spilled Joe Kapp seven times for losses and picked off three of his passes while Johnny Unitas split the Patriots' secondary for three scores.

The Colts' fourth straight victory, coupled with Miami's loss to Cleveland, sent them into sole possession of first place in the American Conference's Eastern Division.

Bill Nelsen passed for two Cleveland scores and linebacker

Dale Lindsey rambled 56 yards with a pass interception for another as the AFC's Central Division leaders battered the Dolphins before a crowd of 75,313—largest ever to see a Miami regular season game.

Washington posted its first shutout victory in six years, stopping the Bengals cold while Sonny Jurgensen and Charlie Taylor combined on a pair of touchdown strikes.

The Lions came from behind at Chicago for their fifth victory in six starts as Errol Mann booted field goals of 49, 43 and 31 yards.

Three field goals by Dale Livingston and a 76-yard interception return by Doug Hart led Green Bay past the winless Eagles.

Bruce Gossett kicked four field goals as San Francisco overcame the Broncos for a 4-1-1 mark.

Tom McCauley scored on a 77-yard punt return, longest in Atlanta history, as the Falcons beat the Saints for the second time.

Wayne Patrick drove three yards for a fourth quarter touchdown after a 40-yard pass from rookie Dennis Shaw to Haven Moses, giving Buffalo its second victory over the skidding Jets, who played without injured Joe Namath for the first time in 78 games.

San Diego gained a tie with the Oilers on an 80-yard scoring pass from Marty Domres to Lance Alworth with less than four minutes to play.

Miami-Toledo Clash To Tell Story Of Title And Bowl

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It's 1969 all over again when Miami visits Toledo Saturday with the Mid-American Conference football title and a Tangerine Bowl spot on the line.

The situation's the same as last year. Toledo has clinched a title share with a 4-0 record and Miami is 2-1. The Rockets won a 14-10 defensive struggle at Oxford in 1969 and went on to the Tangerine Bowl.

The two defensive giants set the stage with league victories Saturday. Toledo bounced Kent State 34-17 for its 18th triumph in a row and Miami outdefended Bowling Green 7-3.

Miami's national title defensive leaders impressed their coach Bill Mallory with their Bowling Green effort, but he warns, "It's gonna have to be better this week."

"A lot of people think Toledo is the best team ever in the Mid-American," Mallory said. "I can't argue with that. They've just got such great talent."

Chuck Ealey passed for two touchdowns and sophomore fullback Joe Schwartz scored a pair as Toledo matched the overall conference record winning streak Bowling Green set in 1958-1960.

Tim Fortney carried the ball a school record 43 times for 203 yards and scored the lone touchdown in Miami's triumph. The Redskins gave up 214 total yards to the Falcons.

In other games, Ohio State rallied from a 20-14 halftime deficit to outmuscle Illinois 48-29 and tailback Steve Cowan's three touchdowns and 266 yards made Cincinnati a 29-21 victory over Ohio University.

In night contests, Dayton edged Akron 14-6 as the Flyers' fabulous Gary Kosins ran for 236 yards, scored one touchdown and snapped four school rushing records; wireless Xavier was thumped 33-10 by Tampa, and Wittenberg maintained its perfect record in the Ohio Conference by downing Baldwin-Wallace 21-14.

Defiance tucked away its third straight Mid-Ohio Conference crown and Capital and Wooster jumped their Ohio Conference pacesetter marks to 4-0.

The Yellowjackets of Defiance stung Bluffton 26-0 behind Mike Hittle's pair of touchdown runs and a defense that yielded only 89 total yards. Defiance finished its Mid-Ohio campaign with a 3-0 record while Bluffton's losing spell was extended to 17 games.

Colby Byrom, a 145-pound halfback, scored twice as Capital bumped Muskingum from the Ohio Conference unbeaten ranks 23-14. It was the first time in 15 games Capital had beaten Muskingum.

Wooster edged Kenyon 10-7 on Bill DeRose's two-yard run and Tom Poetter's 35-yard field goal as both teams crowded all their scoring in the second quarter.

Elsewhere, it was Otterbein 21, Marietta 17; Denison 40, Oberlin 7; Ohio Wesleyan 25, Wabash 22; Ohio Northern 10, Ashland 8; Mount Union 49, Hiram 23; Westminster 49, Heidelberg 20; Wilmington 13, Case Western Reserve 0; Hillsdale 21, Findlay 7; John Carroll 25, Allegheny 14 and Central State 30, West Virginia State 13.

Sites of the next three ABC tournaments are: Detroit, 1971; Long Beach, Calif., 1972; Syracuse, 1973.

CHS Reserves Blast Trace Jayvees, 32-0

Circleville's reserves crushed the reserves of Miami Trace, 32-0, in a game played at Trace Saturday morning.

The Tiger's defensive effort was superb as they stopped the Panthers ground game and thwarted the passing game with five interceptions.

Dave Webb came up with two interceptions, Jeff Harr had one, Phil Kasler one and Mike Chelkowsky grabbed a stray Panther aerial.

Stewart Moore and Dick Strawser were outstanding on defense and continually harassed the opposition.

THE Tigers took a 2-0 lead when Strawser and Terry Leasure blocked a Trace punt in the endzone for a safety.

Circleville went ahead 10-0 when Dave Pontious scored on a five-yard run and Dave Webb ran over for the conversion.

A 35-yard pass from Webb to Chelkowsky was good for a touchdown and Webb hit Phil Kasler for the extra points and the Tigers led 18-0.

Pontious tallied again on a one-yard plunge and Webb tossed to Gregg Williams on a tackle eligible play for the two point to put the Red and Black in front 26-0.

Harr completed the scoring on a four-yard run but the conversion attempt failed and the final score was 32-0.

The reserves are now 5-2 for the season and will host Washington C. H. Saturday.

'Skins Shut Bengals Out; Win 20-0

WASHINGTON (AP) — Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen prescribes a simple philosophy to win pro football games: Don't let the other team score. "It's easy to win football games when you shut the other team out," said the 14-year veteran of the National Football League.

And that's what the Washington Redskins did Sunday in defeating the Cincinnati Bengals, 20-0 their first shutout since Nov. 15, 1964.

It was fortunate that Cincinnati couldn't score because the Redskins' offense wasn't all that hot in taking their third victory in six games in the tightened up eastern division of the National Football Conference.

The Bengals lost their fifth of six games and put themselves deeper into last place of the central division of the American Football Conference.

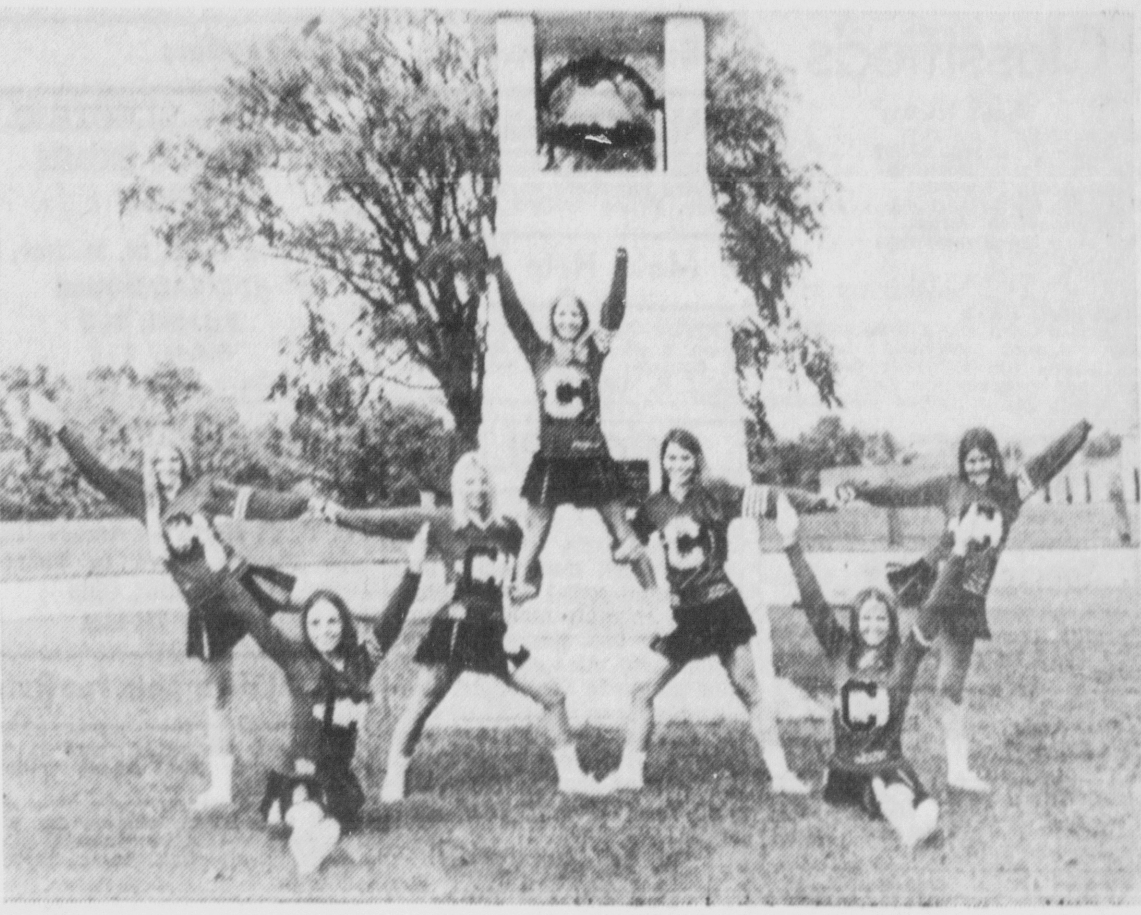

Jurgensen, completing 13 of 24 passes for 123 yards and 2 touchdowns, did things a little different against the Bengals — he called more than half of the plays at the line of scrimmage.

"This way you minimize the mental errors," he said. "If you don't call a play in the huddle, they got to be listening at the line to know how to run the play."

"When you call a play here in the huddle, you give your team a thinking problem. They go to the line thinking which way to block, then you call an audible and change the play, and they go, 'God, now what do we do?'"

Ali-Quarry Contest Set For Tonight
ATLANTA (AP) — Muhammad Ali, lecturer, actor and fast food dealer returns to his true profession of prize fighting tonight in a scheduled 15-round bout against Jerry Quarry.

"This how I earn my living; this is my job," said Ali on the eve of his first fight since being stripped of his heavyweight championship following his conviction for refusing induction into the Army. The conviction still is being appealed.

Ickx Wins Final Formula 1 Race; 2 Die In California

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Formula 1 Grand Prix circuit is over... and it marks the end of an era in motor sports.

Jochen Rindt, the Austrian who got car sick, was officially crowned the champion Formula 1 driver, although he died in a crash over a month ago.

Belgium's Jackie Ickx won Sunday's Mexican Grand Prix, the 13th and final race of the circuit. It was his third triumph — all after Rindt's death—and gave him second place in the championship standings.

It was a year in Grand Prix racing that saw not only Rindt but Bruce McLaren die and marked the final year of competition for the Australian veteran, Jack Brabham.

Ickx wheeled his Ferrari over the 3.2 mile circuit at Mexico City in 1:53:28.36, a Mexican Grand Prix record. His average speed was 106.780 miles per hour and he also had the fastest lap—1:08.491 m.p.h.

There were no injuries as by some miracle, the unruly crowd —estimated at 250,000—avoided disaster. Many rushed on to the track at various times, delaying the start for more than an hour.

"I have never seen anything like this," Ickx said in the pits following his victory. "That was a very bad crowd. The road kept getting narrower and narrower. People were crowding the track on both sides."

After Ickx crossed the finish line, the flag man waved frantically at the drivers trying to get them to stop as soon as possible and not make the customary extra lap.

There were deaths, however, in another Sunday auto race. Three drivers were killed in two separate accidents in what was to have been a gala grand finale for auto racing at the 50-year-old Sacramento, Calif., fairgrounds.

Ickx took the lead in the second lap at Mexico City and increased his margin as the cars continued to wheel around the circuit. Switzerland's Clay Regazzoni was second, followed by Denis Hulme of New Zealand, Chris Amon, also of New Zealand, and France's Jean-Pierre Beltoise.

Brabham, who had announced previously his intention to retire after the Mexican Grand Prix, was in third place for two-thirds of the race, but pulled out with engine trouble.

Killed in Sacramento were Ernie Pursell, 27, of Nevada City, Calif., Walt Reiff, 41, of Anaheim, Calif., and Jimmie Gordon, 26, of Sacramento.

Pursell died in the first heat race of the four-event program.

and Reiff, who was watching the race from inside the track, was struck by another car when he vaulted the guardrail and tried to flag down approaching autos after Pursell's car crashed.

Gordon's car flipped end over end and was hit by another car and exploded in the 35th lap of a 100-lap event. The race was called at that point and Jerry Blundy of Galesburg, Ill., declared the winner.

Mark Donahue of Media, Pa., who had the pole position led all the way to win the L&M Grand Prix Formula A race at Sebring. He drove his Nova-Chevy at an average of 122.255 m.p.h. England's David Hobbs was second in a Surtees-Chevy while comedian Dick Smothers finished sixth.

At Dallas, Tex., Gene Snow of Fort Worth, Tex., drove his 1970 Dodge to victory in the 6th annual National Hot Rod Association's world funny car finals. Snow had to replace a pair of burned pistons before the final run. He earned more than $15,000. He had an elapsed time of 7.03 seconds.

The 300-mile NASCAR Grand National stocker event at Rockingham, N.C., was rained out Sunday.

OSU Defeats Illini; Wins 48-29

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Illinois and Wichita State were losers on the football field Saturday, but came out winners anyway. The Illini won back their coach and Wichita State won the hearts of football fans everywhere.

The final scores: Ohio State 48, Illinois 29 and Arkansas 62, Wichita State 0—were almost immaterial. The Illinois players gave the top-ranked Buckeyes fits for three periods and then announced they would not play the final four games if the university's athletic board went through with plans to fire Coach Jim Valek.

The rebellion proved successful Sunday night when the board succumbed and reinstated Valek for the rest of the season, but made it clear a new coach was favored for 1971. The Illini have lost four of six starts this season and Valek has a 7-29 record in four years.

Wichita State resumed its football program following the Oct. 2 plane crash that took the lives of 30 persons, including 13 players, all of them first-stringers. Captain John Hoheisel, his leg in a cast as a result of the crash, hobbled out to midfield for the pregame coin toss and the Shockers received a standing ovation from the crowd in Little Rock when they took the field.

"It was a funny feeling, going out on the field," said Hoheisel. "I wish I was out there playing. But I guess I should be glad to be alive. Just after that plane crashed I didn't think I would ever see another football game."

"These are great people," said Bob Seaman, who replaced the late Ben Wilson as head coach. "and Coach Frank Broyles is a fine gentleman. He could have made it 150-0, but he put in the second and third teams." Actually, Arkansas' first team sat down after seven minutes.

"I don't care what that thing says," summed up an Arkansas fan looking at the scoreboard. "They didn't lose."

While Ohio State was overtaking fired-up Illinois on the strength of John Brockington's three touchdowns, Texas, Nebraska and Michigan, rated second, fourth and fifth, respectively, in The Associated Press college football poll, posted easy victories but sixth-ranked Auburn bowed to No. 14 Louisiana State 17-9. Notre Dame, No. 3, was idle.

Texas trounced Rice 45-21 as Eddie Phillips scored three times and Steve Worster blasted for 170 yards and a record-tying 28th career touchdown. The Longhorns pulled into a tie with ninth-ranked Arkansas for the Southwest Conference lead.

Nebraska zoomed to a 41-7 halftime lead and crushed Oklahoma State 65-31. The Cornhuskers' biggest scoring output ever against a Big Eight foe. They lead the conference by one-half game over Kansas State.

The running of Billy Taylor (151 yards) and Fritz Seyferth (four touchdowns) powered Michigan past Minnesota and enabled the Wolverines to stay in a tie for the Big Ten lead with Ohio State and unranked Northwestern, which walloped Purdue 38-14.

LSU's victory ended Auburn's unbeaten record and enabled the Bayou Tigers to slip past the Alabamians as the chief threat to Mississippi in the Southeastern Conference, with Auburn, Tennessee and Mississippi State a notch behind.

First-half touchdowns by Andy Hamilton on a pass from Buddy Lee and Art Cantrell's one-yard plunge gave the Tigers a 15-6 lead and a goal line stand with four minutes left preserved the lead.

Bob Parker threw three touchdown passes to Ernie Jennings as seventh-ranked Air Force tripped Boston College 33-10. No. 8 Stanford needed three field goals by Steve Horowitz, the last a 30-yarder with 4:57 left, to edge 16th-ranked UCLA 9-7 and remain in the Pacific-8 driver's seat for the Rose Bowl while Oregon stayed one-half game back with a 10-7 up-set of 10th-ranked Southern California on Bobby Moore's fourth-period touchdown smash.

In the Second Ten, 11th-ranked Tennessee handed Florida and ex-Vol coach Doug Dickcay a 38-7 thumping. No. 12 Arizona State rolled over Texas-El Paso 42-13 and 15th-rated Mississippi, with Coach Johnny Vaughn hospitalized and missing for the first time since 1947, turned back Vanderbilt 26-16.

Houston, No. 15, lost to Alabama 30-21 as Richard Ciemny booted three field goals and Steve Higginbotham scooted 80 yards with an interception; 18th-ranked Pitt rolled to a quick 28-point lead and held off Miami, Fla. 28-17 and Colorado and Toledo, tied for 19th, met opposite fates. The Buffs lost to Missouri 30-16 while Toledo used the passing of Chuck Ealey and the running and receiving of Joe Schwartz to beat Kent State 24-17.

Elsewhere, Dartmouth ripped Harvard 37-14 and Yale drubbed Cornell 38-7 to remain in a tie for the Ivy League lead and set up next weekend's battle of the unbeatens; Southern Mississippi, fresh from a startling upset of Ole Miss, was bombed out by Mississippi State 51-15 and Columbia shelled Rutgers 30-14 in another meeting of college football's second oldest rivals.

A special award of $1 will also be awarded the oldest and youngest of the celebration.

Floats, marching units, maskers and area queens will appear in the annual parade, highlighted by presentation of a Miss Tarlton 1971.

Games, refreshments, and a fish fry will be offered throughout the 'Fun Day' in the village park located behind the firehouse.

Tarlton resident Roger Hartranft directs the Halloween celebration. For additional information, phone 474-5591.

Agnew Continues Attacks In West; Eyes New England

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he wants to be humorous in his speeches but in a political campaign it is sometimes difficult "to be funny without being vicious."

Agnew, in a relaxed mood, made the comment Friday as his chartered jet sped him from one to yet another of the fall campaign appearances that have caused his critics to accuse him—in his own words—of being a "peddler of hate."

The vice president was on his way from Tucson, Ariz., to Hartford, Conn. In Tucson he had defended Nixon administration economic policies and attacked "radical liberals." In Hartford he lambasted the Americans for Democratic Action and New York's Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Agnew flew to Erie, Pa., today for an airport rally before returning to Washington and a one-day rest in advance of the final campaign push next week that will take him hopscotching into the South and possibly to the Midwest on a six-day swing.

It was only the second time since his campaign travels began Sept. 10 that Agnew came to the rear of his plane to chat with a dozen or so newsmen following him.

During the 1968 campaign Agnew did visit with the traveling press but cut down his trips to the rear of the plane after several comments he made jokingly made national headlines.

Wearing an impeccable light gray suit, blue shirt and patterned tie with highly shined shoes, Agnew stood in the aisle, perching occasionally on a seat arm, while he talked about his family, mentioning he has relatives in Greece, North Africa and—at the prompting of a newsman—even Thailand.

Hanoi Awaiting U.S. Elections?

SAIGON (AP) — Allied officials said Saturday they expect no new moves by Hanoi at the Paris peace talks until at least after next month's U.S. congressional elections.

The officials said that if Hanoi were to make any move to follow up President Nixon's five-point peace plan, it might be a boost to Nixon and the candidates his administration supports in the Nov. 3 election.

Confab Held On Mental Retardation

"Chance — Choice — Change — Whither The Mentally Retarded in the 70's" was the theme for the annual meeting of The Great Lakes Region of the American Association on Mental Deficiency held at the Neil House in Columbus, Oct. 21-23.

Participating in the program were key people from the states included in the region — Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Ohio.

Among the speakers were Dr. Elizabeth Boggs, chairman of government affairs committee of NARC, Dr. George Soloyanis, executive director of AAMD and Dr. Ed Newman from Washington D.C. who is commissioner of Rehabilitation Services Administration, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

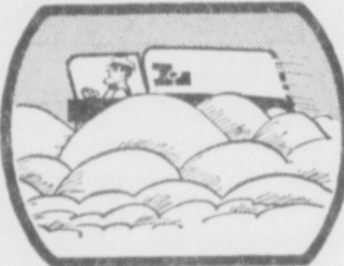

Dr. Roger Gove, Commissioner of The Ohio Department Mental Hygiene and Correction, who was program chairman of the event, was elected chairman for the region for 1970-71.

In attendance from the Pickaway County Program of Mental Retardation was Leora Sayre, teacher at Brooks-Yates School.
